SCORES DEAD, VILLAGES RUINED BY QUAKE

Miss Whitney's Case Delayed; Demurrer Filed

OBJECTION TO BE ARGUED MONDAY

Defense Claims No Real Offense Charged In Jury's Accusation

A woman, who for 20 years has held one of the highest charges her community can bestow, appeared this morning before the court tribunal to hear action begun that would snatch away her trust.

She is Justine Whitney, Orange county recorder. She appeared before Presiding Judge George K. Scovel in superior court, department No. 3. She was to answer an 11-point accusation of willful and corrupt misconduct in connection with the handling of county funds, filed by the grand jury, Dec. 11.

Demurrer Filed

But she did not have to answer it today. Her attorney, O. A. Jacobs, filed a demurrer to the accusation. The court set next Monday at 9 a. m. as the time for arguing the demurrer. The demurrer, in effect, objects to the accusation on the ground that it does not charge a real offense against Miss Whitney. The court on Monday may overrule the demurrer. In that case Miss Whitney will be called upon to answer the accusation at once, or on a date set by the court.

Relates to Ouster

Today's proceedings related to the move of the grand jury to oust Miss Whitney from office, and had no bearing upon the indictment by the grand jury in which she was charged with appropriating county funds to her own use. However, today's case has an important relation to the indictment, in the opinion of many observers, who predict that if Miss Whitney is removed from office, there is a probability that the indictment will not be tried.

Mr. Jacobs represents Miss Whitney only i the ouster matter. Her attorney on the indictment case is S. B. Kaufman, former district attorney, who was in office at the time the alleged irregularities were noticed two years ago and were not made public.

Appears Nervous

The court may sustain the demurrer, with leave to amend. In that case Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis will make the necessary changes in the accusation and the proceedings will go forward again. If the court should sustain the demurrer without leave to amend, the case will be finished and there would be no trial unless the grand jury filed another accusation or similar instrument.

Miss Whitney entered the courtroom shortly before 10 o'clock, the time set for the hearing, and walked heavily to her place in-

F. D. R. WORKING ON MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. (AP)—President Roosevelt got down to serious work today on his recommendations to the congress which meets a week from tomorrow.

The chief executive stayed in his second floor study in the White House instead of going to his office in order to concentrate on drafting his annual message on the state of the union and budget figures for the financial year beginning next July 1.

What of Liquor?

Conditions Grow Worse, One Santa Anan Says

(Editor's note—What of the liquor problem in California? Where are we heading? Back to prohibition, say many. Included in this number are some who are not radical on the subject. Should the control of the business be taken away from the the state board of equalization? Are state-controlled liquor stores desirable? These and scores of other questions are to be answered in a series of articles in The Journal, of which this is the first. Opinions will be largely those of Santa Ana and Orange county citizens.)

By BOB GUILD

Ralph Smedley, secretary of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., has had 30 years of experience in social problems as they affect the young man of today.

Through his contacts with the Santa Ana Rotary club, the Toastmasters club, of which he is the founder, and of various civic committees and welfare movements, he has had ample opportunity to observe the attitude, affect and general status of the ramified and perplexing problem of liquor control. "I know this," he said today. "In all my years' experience in Y. M. C. A. work I have never had the trouble with the liquor question inside the association that we are having today, unless it was in the year just preceding repeal, when it was obvious that prohibition's day was done."

Willing to express his views on the matter, Mr. Smedley is of the opinion that we are going from bad to worse in regard to liquor. That the question is not only one of control, but a general one of habits, morals and of the national welfare.

'Situation Intolerable'

The present situation, he says, is intolerable.

"This so-called 'control,'" he remarked, "is anything but that. Pre-repeal promises of good conduct by the liquor interests seem to have been completely forgotten."

That there will be drastic and sweeping changes in the conduct of the liquor business, Mr. Smedley doubts not at all. "And when it comes," he said, "no one will be to blame but the liquor interests themselves.

"It was the insensate greed of the liquor interests which brought on the prohibition amendment in the first place," he said, "and the same influence will ultimately compel drastic action to deliver us from the present condition.

Urges Local Control

"When the condition gets too bad for human endurance, we will take action to change it," he continued, "and it seems to me that we have not much further to go to find that unendurable condition."

A believer in local control of liquor, Mr. Smedley said: "Certainly the American principle of self-determination should apply to local communities, and each city or county should have the right to say for itself how many and what

DEATH TAKES PEDESTRIAN

Victim's Arm Torn Off By Automobile Near Doheny Palisades

Killed in county traffic accidents so far this year..	60
Killed in county traffic accidents same time last year..	53

Death declined to take a holiday on Orange county highways Christmas. Instead, death snatched one victim that brought the coroner's record of traffic fatalities in the county to 60 for the year to date.

Death's victim was Fidel Linaris, 45, of 430 South Nolan street, Whittier, who succumbed at noon Christmas day in the county hospital to injuries sustained at 6:55 p. m. Tuesday on the 101 highway near Doheny Palisades.

Arm Torn Off

Mr. Linaris had stopped his car at the side of the highway, and was walking across to Burke's cafe to inquire the way to Escondido where he planned to spend Christmas. He was watching the eastbound traffic, and apparently failed to see a westbound car driven by William F. Morgan, Santa Ana, for he walked directly into the side of the machine.

The door knob of the car hooked into Mr. Linaris' arm and tore it off four inches below the shoulder. As he lay screaming on the highway, Paul Burke, proprietor of the cafe, came running to his side. Mr. Burke applied a tourniquet in an attempt to stem the flow of blood.

Inquest Planned

The injured man was placed in Mr. Burke's car and rushed to San Juan Capistrano where he was treated by Dr. Glenn R. Halverson. It was thought at first Mr. Burke's efforts to save the man's

CANDY BLAMED FOR DEATH

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 26. (AP)—The mysterious death of Lawrence Hammond, 17, Waco High school student, led authorities today to order an inquest and an analysis of Christmas candy he ate at a school party.

Deputy Sheriff Ted McMahon said young Hammond's sister and two cousins became violently ill, apparently after eating the same candy, but were out of danger.

On his death bed the youth told friends he believed the candy was poisoned.

TRY BERKELEY DAMAGE CASES

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26. (AP)—Jury selection started today in the trial of three suits for damages totaling $180,250 started against Busby Berkeley, film director, as a result of an automobile collision in which three persons were killed and two seriously injured.

Berkeley's trial on second degree murder charges in connection with the collision resulted in a hung jury Tuesday. His second trial will start Feb. 24.

LEADER SEES SINO-JAPAN TROUBLE

Assassination Of Vice Minister Of Railroads Causes Uprisings

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Dec. 26. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Rensuke Isogai, military attache of the Japanese embassy, predicted tonight there would be serious effects from the assassination yesterday of Tang Yu-Jen, the pro-Japanese vice minister of Chinese railways.

'Dark Shadow'

Other Japanese military sources had declared earlier that the assassination "throws a dark shadow over the future of Sino-Japanese relations."

The police at Nanking forbade all public gatherings and parades in an effort to stop student demonstrations against Japan

The central government declared martial law and also placed severe military restrictions at Hankow and ordered demolition of a section of its railway to prevent demonstrating students reaching the Nanking capital in a commandeered train.

Seize Locomotive

The students, after seizing a locomotive here when the government refused them free transportation, reached Changchow, about 75 miles short of their goal.

Urge Resistance

The demonstrators' numbers were swollen to 2000. They held meetings at railway points, urging the Chinese peasants to resist Japanese aggression and force suppression of the North China autonomy movement.

The vice minister for railways fell dead under a blast of gunfire turned upon him just after he left his automobile last night to enter a house in the French concession.

S. F. MOUNTAIN SLIPS 75 FEET

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26. (AP) A 300-foot section of Lone mountain, in the western part of the city, slid 75 feet into Francisco Heights subdivision shortly after midnight today, breaking water and gas mains and electric lines.

The slide started within 60 feet of the west dormitory of the San Francisco college for women, where 25 sisters of the Sacred Heart were awakened as a transformer exploded and burned below. Pavement was lifted 20 feet into the air.

FEDERAL JUDGE THREATENED

NATION HELD IN ICY GRIP

96 Die By Freezing Or Accidents; 18 Below In North Dakota

CHICAGO, Dec. 26. (AP)—Bitter cold and heavy snow held most of the nation in an icy embrace today.

Ninety-six persons lost their lives by freezing and exposure or in traffic accidents. Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin each had two deaths by freezing and single deaths were reported in Missouri, New Jersey, Arizona, Indiana, Tennessee, Montana and North Dakota.

Blinding snowstorms were reported with many fatalities. Icy Pavements added to the death list.

The warmest spot in the nation yesterday was Phoenix, Ariz., where residents basked in a maximum of 78 under warm, clear skies. Another comfortable spot was Seward, Alaska, where the day's high was 43 degrees.

Devil's Lake, N. D., offered 18 degrees below zero, the coldest in the nation. At Bismarck, N. D., it was minus eight degrees.

Snow was general throughout the great central plains area, where the thermometer was dropping sharply.

Coldest weather was forecast for Dixie, although no citrus fruit damage was expected.

Sharp drops in temperature were predicted for New York and New England with a light fall of snow. The Pacific coast states enjoyed normal temperatures, although snow and cold visited parts of Washington and Oregon.

Quintuplets—Two Boys, 3 Girls—Born To Couple

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 26. (AP) — The birth of quintuplets to a Nicaraguan couple was reported in the Managua press today:

The parents of the children are Senor and Senora Timoteo Laines, residents of the village of Sabana Grande, in the department (state) of Matagalpa.

The quintuplets consist of three boys and two girls, all in perfect health.

Medical authorities here were interested in the report but worried because the infant death rate is high in Nicaragua, especially in the outlying districts such as Matagalpa, where communications are meagre.

Steps For Settlement Of Rights To River Flow Are Taken

Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties today had taken a big stride toward settlement of differences over water rights on the Santa Ana river. The upper counties have "uncovered their cards" and have informed Orange county as to how much flood water they believe the water conservation association should be allowed to hold back and sink into the underground basin in San Bernardino county.

This is the most significant forward step in negotiations that has

CITY BOUNCED BY TEMBLOR

No Damage Done Here By Earthquake On Christmas Day

Many Santa Anans who had planned to sleep later than 9:15 a. m. yesterday suddenly changed their schedule and leaped out of bed when a sharp, bouncing earthquake struck the city. The disturbance was judged by many to have been the most severe since that of March 10, 1933.

Instead of a swaying motion the temblor seemed to move through an up and down plane.

Seismologists at the Caltech laboratory in Pasadena today had decided that the temblor was an "after shock" of the disastrous 1933 quake, which claimed many lives and wrecked buildings in half a dozen Southland cities.

The delicate instruments at the laboratory recorded the disturbance at 9:15:58 a. m. Long Beach and Santa Ana apparently felt the shock most intensely. Los Angeles and some cities along the coast felt it slightly. Officials were unable to fix the exact center of the earth movement, placing it 50 to 100 miles from Pasadena.

There were few persons in the taller buildings of the city yesterday morning, but those who were there reported that the quake was severe enough to give them a real thrill.

No damage was reported as a result of the quake and shortly afterward the city settled down again to the business of observing Christmas day.

BOY KILLS SELF AT YULE PARTY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 26. (AP)—A Christmas fraternity dance ended in tragedy early today as 17-year-old Alvin Niemeyer shot himself to death on the crowded floor of a night club.

One of two bullets the youth fired through his heart struck Miss Dorothy Bell, 19, president of the Little Rock High school student council, causing slight wounds in her back and left arm.

Coroner Lawson C. Aday returned a suicide verdict. He said young Niemeyer had been despondent. The shooting of the girl was an accident.

END NEAR FOR RELIEF FUNDS

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 26. (AP)—California's unemployment relief program will run out of December funds by Saturday, Ray L. Riley, controller, said today.

The December program cost $5,302,593 in the first 23 days of the month and about $700,000 was left to carry it through to the first of the year, the controller said.

WHOLE TOWNS SWEPT DOWN MOUNTAIN

Primitive Chinese Folk Die As Communities Are Destroyed

CHENGTU, Szechuan Province, China, Dec. 26. (AP)—New reports of an earthquake in Southern Szechuan told today of whole villages being swept down mountain sides, carrying all their inhabitants to death.

Think Thousands Dead

Authorities said it was impossible to determine yet the exact extent of the disaster because of shattered communications and the remoteness of the afflicted area, but expressed belief the number of deaths probably would mount to the thousands.

The Chinese advices said villages and forts of the primitive Lolo tribespeople, perched near mountain tops for protection from attack, were precipitated into the valleys.

Communities of 100 families and more were destroyed.

Mountain Split Open

The upheaval, which centered in the Mapien district of southern Szechuan province, also wrought strange changes in the landscape, the skeleton advices saying a mountain was split open by a one-mile gash in one place while landslides dammed rivers and formed lakes in other places.

The upper Yangtse river suddenly dropped five feet in level when its tributary, the Kinsha river, was cut off abruptly.

HOLIDAY CRASH FATAL TO 36

GROSS HERINGEN, Germany, Dec. 26. (AP)—Germany's first major railway tragedy in several years crowded out Christmas holiday joy in this Thuringian town and left 36 persons dead today after a collision between a local train and the Berlin-Basel express.

The express glanced off the local train on the bridge over the River Saale Christmas eve, plunging several of the local coaches into the icy waters.

LET CONTRACTS FOR DAM JOB

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. (AP)—Contracts for supplying 375,000 barrels of cement for the Imperial dam and desilting works were awarded by Secretary Ickes today to the Riverside Cement company, the California Portland Cement company and the Southwestern Portland Cement company, all of Los Angeles, on their joint bid of $1.79 a barrel.

FLOOD LEAVES SCORES DEAD

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 26. (AP)—Many persons were reported drowned and injured and thousands were made homeless by a flood in the Antalia district of Southern Asia Minor today.

Rivers became torrents, flooded over their banks and isolated 30 villages in the area.

Santa Ana's Modern Youth Answers Questions and You Can Draw Own Conclusions

What about Modern Youth? How about their morals—their attitude toward age-old conventions—the way they look at life? What are they doing to help themselves find a niche in this topsy-turvy world, upset by a depression that seemingly has wrecked their ambitions? To find out about Modern Youth in Santa Ana, The Journal sent a reporter, Miss Virginia Smith, on a scouting tour. The last of her five articles about the subject follows.—Editor.

By VIRGINIA SMITH

Here are the answers! You who came along before 1900 can guess at convictions and behavior traits of those under 25.

Several Santa Ana youth leaders have told you what they know about the young ones. Here, however, is the testimony from 39 of them from 17 to 22 years old, to give you the whole story.

The group chosen to answer a written questionnaire represented an average cross-section of modern youth in Santa Ana. Twenty-one boys and 18 girls, none of whom I knew, were included. Some of the questions they preferred not to answer but a fair proportion of answers resulted. Their answers to the questionnaire were submitted, unsigned, and compiled apart from anyone who knew them.

They're yours for drawing conclusions.

Eighteen of the boys and 15 of the girls are going to get married. Two of the girls said "no" and the rest didn't commit themselves. They know why they're going to marry, too. Twenty-six want a home, 30 want companionship, and 25 want children.

The boys have a slight edge over the girls on what their parents might deem "vices." Eleven of the boys bet on horses and football games while only two of the girls do. Seven boys and two girls play poker or shoot craps. Six of the boys and five of the girls drink, 11 boys and eight girls smoke. Fourteen girls and 12 boys dance.

Evidently the same boys and girls didn't date each other be-

ETHIOPIANS SHOOT DOWN ITALIAN PLANE AND BEHEAD PILOT

PEACE OFFER IS MADE BY GEORGE V

Addis Ababa Officials Expel Spy Suspect; Laval Studies Plan

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 26. (AP)—The Ethiopian government reported today that its soldiers had shot down an Italian airplane at Daggah Bur.

The airplane was flying in a reconnoitering expedition in company with another.

It was brought to earth, according to the government, at 9 a. m., today.

Officials reported from Harar that the pilot—not immediately identified—was beheaded.

The Ethiopian government's secret police pressed their intensive drive against suspected Italian spies today, expelling a Greek whose name was published as Dmitri Kiriakoulakis.

KING GEORGE MAKES 'FRIENDSHIP OFFER'

LONDON, Dec. 26. (AP)—Great Britain's King George held forth an offer of friendship to all nations today amid the crisis arising from Italy's invasion of Ethiopia and application of League of Nations' penalties against the Fascist nation.

"In Europe and in many parts of the world anxieties surround us," the monarch said yesterday in a Christmas day speech.

"It is good to think that our own family of peoples it at peace in itself and united in one desire to be at peace with other nations —a friend of all, an enemy to none.

"May the spirit of goodwill and mutual helpfulness grow and spread. Then it will bring not only the blessing of peace but a solution of the economic troubles which still beset us."

LAVAL'S FUTURE WAR PLANS INDEFINITE

PARIS, Dec. 26. (AP)—Premier Laval told his cabinet today, it was reported in the chamber of deputies lobbies, that France would refrain from making any military or naval move toward Italy unless Italy gave provocation.

Details of the premier's future policy to keep out of war and to settle the Italo-Ethiopian conflict were not yet decided upon, however, informed sources said that after Laval met his ministers to draft his defense for tomorrow's chamber of deputies interpellation on foreign policy.

Laval was reported anxious, nevertheless, to continue his role of peacemaker at Geneva.

'DR. DOOLITTLE' IS ILL HERE

Dr. Doolittle is ill.

Hugh Lofting of San Clemente, known to thousands of children for his entertaining "Dr. Doolittle" stories about animals, is in St. Joseph's hospital, where he is recovering from an attack of phlebitis.

Today he was reported to be resting easily, although several days ago his condition was regarded as serious.

Phlebitis is an inflammation of the veins in the leg, and is caused by an infection.

Mr. Lofting is ranked high among story writers of the world, and his work has won the praise of men like Hugh Walpole, famous English novelist. The Dr. Doolittle stories have been translated into many languages.

FALL TO PAVEMENT KILLS ITINERANT

Frank Garrity, 52, itinerant, died yesterday at the county hospital as a result of a fall on East Center street, Anaheim, at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday. Chief of Police James Bouldin took Garrity to the Anaheim police station after he had fallen, striking his head on the curbing. After a medical examination Garrity was taken to the hospital.

Baby Girl Only Arrival Here On Christmas Day

By a margin of half an hour, one brand new Santa Anan today claims the distinction of being the only baby born in this city on the 1,935th anniversary of the birth of Christ.

She is Rochelle Yvonne Brown, eight and one-half pounds, born at noon Christmas day to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brown, 1013 West Bishop street.

Rochelle came very nearly not being the city's only "Christmas baby." A son born to Mr. and Mrs. Brazee Hawkins arrived just half an hour too soon—11:30 o'clock Tuesday night—at Santa Ana Valley hospital. Another close contestant was a son born early today to Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lange, Irvine, in the Sargeant Maternity hospital, Santa Ana.

STARS TESTIFY AT TODD PROBE

Stanley Lupino, English comedian, and Ida Lupino, his actress daughter, above, shown ready to testify before the Los Angeles county grand jury in the jury's investigation of the mysterious death of Thelma Todd, blond screen actress. Mr. Lupino and his daughter gave the gay Hollywood party which Miss Todd attended the Saturday night before she was found dead on Monday. W. F. Persson, left and below, Los Angeles cigar store proprietor, told the jury he saw and talked with Miss Todd the morning before her body was found. R. E. Fisher, right and below, told the same story.

DEATH PROBERS TO STUDY MISS TODD'S SECRETS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26. (AP)—Romantic and financial secrets in the life of Thelma Todd were investigated today in a search for new evidence concerning her death.

Deputy District Attorney U. U. Blalock said two Hollywood men, unmentioned before in the case, but reputed to have enjoyed the golden-haired comedienne's confidence, will be questioned by detectives.

'Marvelous Romance'

The interrogation will center on what information they may have regarding the identity of a "San Francisco business man," with whom the actress assertedly disclosed she was having a "marvelous romance."

The district attorney's office has received a written statement by Roland West, close friend of Miss Todd, on the arrangements for the operation and ownership of the Sidewalk cafe which bore her name, attaches said.

Invested No Money

The statement revealed the pair had a verbal agreement by which she was to be given the cafe, if he died before she did, attaches said. It denied Miss Todd had invested her own money in the enterprise, the cafe buildings being in the name of West's estranged wife, Jewel Carmen, former actress.

"The grand jury, meeting again tomorrow, wants to find out all about this deal, which apparently was somewhat unusual," Blalock declared.

A report that a throat laceration was noted when the autopsy was being performed on the actress' body was refuted by County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner, who said the only mark was a slight injury about her lips, apparently suffered when her head struck the steering wheel of her automobile. The actress was found dead in the machine in a garage behind her cafe a week ago Monday.

Accident Upheld

Police said today their theory of accidental death from carbon monoxide poisoning, which also was expressed in the inquest verdict, has received substantiation from a report by City Chemist Ray Pinkert.

Pinkert determined that carbon monoxide was present in blood scraped from the door and running board of the Todd automobile. This shows conclusively, police said, that the actress was not injured before she entered the garage, but that she suffered the cut about her mouth when she collapsed from the effect of the engine fumes.

They reasoned that Miss Todd, returning from a Hollywood party early Sunday morning, found herself locked out of the cafe, went to the garage to keep warm, and started the motor of her automobile. The lethral gas killed her within two minutes, officials maintain.

TALK HEARD ON CONSTITUTION

Capt. Paul Perigord, professor of French civilization, University of California at Los Angeles, in an address before members of three Santa Ana service clubs held in the American Legion hall today, expressed his complete confidence in the American constitution.

"The constitution," Captain Perigord said, "is the condensation of the political thinking and learning of the greatest political thinkers of all time. Its origin dates back to the ancient times, and today is the greatest document of its kind ever written by the hand of man. Our constitution is not to be trifled with, and it is absolute folly for anyone to think that our constitutional form of government can ever successfully be patterned after any other form."

In discussing the present economic crisis, Capt. Perigord expressed a belief that the greatest problem confronting civilization today is the question of distribution of goods.

"We have solved the problem of production in that we have enough for everybody," he said. "However, there are thousands who are starving, while still other thousands have plenty. The solution to the problem, is to increase the purchasing power of the masses. Cut down the profits of the producers to the point where they will have steady incomes and at the same time be providing for more employes. It is far better that a man work for an employer rather than the government, he said, and unless business cares for our people, then government must."

C. W. Harrison, president of the Lions club, acted as chairman of the day, and introduced Ray Adkinson, program chairman. The Lions club was host to the other two organizations, the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs. Those participating in the program were E. R. Abbey, Frank West and Frank Pierce.

START MAIN JOB JAN. 2

Street Extension Work To Employ 221 Men For 12 Months

Work on the four-mile extension of South Main street, from Corona Del Mar to the Palisades road, just back of the Santa Ana Country club, will be started Jan. 2, it was announced today by Dan Mulherron, county director of the Works Progress administration.

Allocation of funds for the project was made today, Mr. Mulherron announced. The work will be done at a total cost of $181,649.36, $144,853 to be donated by the federal government, and the remainder to be given by Orange county as local sponsor.

The sum of $12,000 also has been appropriated by the state highway department to assist Orange county if necessary. The road, when completed, will become a part of the state highway secondary system.

Purchase of three tractors and a light truck to be used on the South Main street extension project has been authorized by the board of supervisors. The action was taken following approval Tuesday of the plan for extending South Main street from Newport road to Corona del Mar.

The project will employ 221 men for 12 months, in clearing rights of way, installing drainage structures, building cattle passes, fencing rights of way, and making grade constructions.

At the same time it was announced that work on the Laguna Beach Memorial hall and on the service tunnel at the Fullerton Union High school would be gotten under way on Jan. 2.

The Laguna Beach work will cost $2710.90, $1437 to be donated by the federal government, and will employ eight men for three months.

The service tunnel for the new Fullerton school will be for gas, water and electric piping. Cost of the work will be $24,962, and it will employ 52 men for five months.

Howard F. Haney, 103 St. Gertrude place, Santa Ana, suffered severe lacerations and bruises yesterday when his car crashed into a machine parked in the 1900 block on Cypress street. The parked car was registered to Delbert Keiser, 1811 Cypress street, and the injured driver was taken to his home by a friend, Charles Gray, 1901 Cypress street.

I. E. Jamison, 30, Orange, suffered minor injuries at 1 a. m. yesterday when his car crashed into a parked machine at 912 West First street, Santa Ana. The victim was taken to his home by a passing motorist.

Fred B. McKinley, Anaheim, was injured at 11 p. m. Tuesday when his car collided with a machine driven by R. A. Lang, 1318 West First street, Santa Ana. The accident occurred at Second and Bristol streets, Santa Ana.

Two Arrested

Thomas James, 30, Chula Vista, suffered minor injuries at 7 p. m. Tuesday when a car in which he was riding, driven by Clifford White, 33, Chula Vista, collided with a machine driven by H. H. Henshaw, Laguna Beach. The accident occurred on 101 highway near Irvine, and according to a report filed by Highway Patrolman Dan Adams, the White car traveled for four miles before it went off the highway. The two occupants, White and James, were arrested on charges of drunkeness.

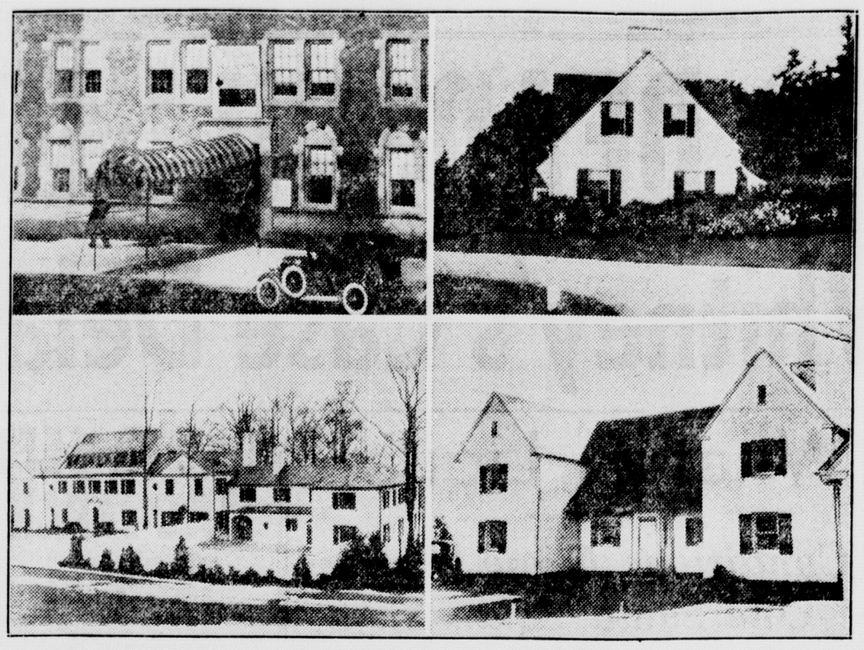

There were four other accidents on county highways during the holiday, all of a minor nature, in which none of the persons involved sustained injuries.

MAN STRICKEN AT COURTHOUSE

Julio Lopez, 40, Huntington Beach, suffered a heart attack in the marriage license office at the courthouse early this afternoon. His daughter, Jane L. Acosta, Huntington Beach, had just applied for a license to marry Achilio Sianez, also of Huntington Beach.

Mr. Lopez was a member of the party when they came to the courthouse. Immediately after the attack Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, and Dr. Arthur Wade of Santa Ana were called. Mr. Lopez was taken to the county hospital in an ambulance.

LINDBERGHS FLEE FROM HOMES LIKE THESE

Time Outlaws Some Dates

Here Are 2-Inch Rain-Guessers And Their Guesses

Those who have entered The Journal's rain-guessing contest and whose guesses have not been invalidated by time element, follow, together with the dates and hours they have selected for the city's first two-inch rain to begin:

Vera Solis, 119 Flora, Dec. 26, 10 p. m.

Virginia Solis, 119 Flora, Dec. 28, 3 a. m.

Lyle Kelly, 1020 North Ross, Dec. 29, 5 a. m.

Akana Immamura, Laguna Beach, Dec. 31, early morning.

Terrence Halloran, 811 South Flower, Dec. 31, 12 p. m.

R. D. Flaherty, Orange County Farm bureau, Jan. 1, 3 a. m.

Angie LeGates, 420 South Parton, Jan. 1, 6 a. m.

James Kuester, 333 East Chapman, Orange, Jan. 1, 10 a. m.

Mrs. Lilly Forsberg, 422 Pomona, Jan. 1, 4 p. m.

Philip Dowds, 1200 East Central, Baiboa, Jan. 1, 6 p. m.

Frank Rogers, 1228 North Broadway, Jan. 1, 9:30 p. m.

Everett Glasgow, 410 East Fourth, Jan. 1, 12 p. m.

Miss Helen Cox, 903 Lacy, Jan. 7, 12 p. m.

W. H. Braggs, 915 Bush street, Jan. 9, 8 p. m.

Dan Mulherron, San Clemente, Jan. 15, 12 p. m.

John H. Trickey, Orange, Feb. 2, 1:30 a. m.

Jewel Hinkle, 1816 North Main, Feb. 16, 10 p. m.

Giddyap, Napoleon, it looks like rain!

A week has gone by since the start of The Journal's two-inch rain contest, and not a drop of moisture has fallen so far. Hurry and get your guess to The Journal office as to the day and hour it will start, if you would win fame as a prognosticator, and incidentally a new umbrella.

A round dozen entrants in the contest already have seen the promise of rain belied, and their predictions thrown out. Unless it rains tonight one more will join them.

These had better go over their calculations, and get their new guesses in right away, in order to be on hand for the judging when the rain begins to fall.

Those who are behind in the polling are Miss Clara Duran, Fullerton, who guessed Dec. 19; Chris Duran, Fullerton, Dec. 20; Orlo W. Householder, Santa Ana, Dec. 20; Florence Sainbait, Santa Ana, Dec. 21; Telford Thronson, Santa Ana, Dec. 22; Mrs. D. M. Winterbourne, Santa Ana, Dec. 24; Frank Harwood, Santa Ana, Dec. 24; Gerald Bower, Tustin, Dec. 25; Mrs. T. A. Solis, Santa Ana, Dec. 25; Harry Hanson, Santa Ana, Dec. 25; Martin G. Murray, Huntington Beach, Dec. 24; E. D. E., Santa Ana, Dec. 22.

Today two new predictions of wet weather came in, Mrs. Ben Craig, of 517 North Bristol, Santa Ana, guessing Jan. 2, at 4 p. m., and Eugene Kelley, 715 Spurgeon street, Santa Ana, predicting a downpour on Dec. 30, at 10 p. m., with "Stanford football weather" to follow on New Year's Day.

MORE ABOUT

WHITNEY

side the rail. As the white-haired woman sat beside the court reporter, Mrs. Birdie A. Swanwick, she pulled jerkily at her simply-cut black silk dress.

Her hand frequently passed over corners of her mouth, as she chatted abstractedly with the reporter. Face and neck muscles were drawn and her eyes roved impatiently over the courtroom where friends and spectators were scattered.

Occasionally she twisted the corner of a white handkerchief, which she crumpled in her hand.

She had time for a short conversation with her attorney, Otto Jacobs, before the court was called to order.

She stood up rather quickly as Judge Scovel called her name. A hasty smile, such as she might have given a fellow employe in passing recognition, crossed her face as she designated her presence.

Case Over Quickly

Only several minutes passed before time for arguing the demurrer was set, and court was adjourned.

She paused for a moment obviously tense and nervous, to speak with several friends. Then she moved out of the courtroom, back to her post as county recorder—back to the post which the grand jury has begun action to remove from her — the office which has been her's for 20 years.

The demurrer asserts that the court has no jurisdiction, that the accusation does not state facts sufficient to constitute willful and corrupt misconduct and that it does not specifically allege that Miss Whitney was county recorder at the time of the alleged offenses.

An examination of the accusation shows that while the introductory part says Miss Whitney is county recorder, this fact is not directly stated in the paragraphs dealing with each of the 11 occasions on which offenses are charged. Two of the specifications, numbers 9 and 10, refer to a time prior to Miss Whitney's present term. The law says that an accusation will not lie in such a case, if it refers to a time prior to the current term.

The demurrer does not amplify the statement that the court does not have jurisdiction, and Mr. Jacobs today declined to explain his position on this point.

GUNMAN KILLS TWO IN FIGHT

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 26. (AP)—Posses from several mountain counties followed a trail toward rugged Yellowstone park today in a widening hunt for a desperate gunman.

The fugitive, who left two dead and two wounded here in a Christmas day pistol fight, was identfied by a woman companion as Harry Knight, reputed ex-convict, wanted for killing a deputy sheriff near Seattle and for a bank robbery at Rigby, Ida. Shot to death in yesterday's battle in a Butte rooming house were Policeman Tom O'Neil, 37, and Frank Walsh, 24. Wounded were Mrs. Florence Benevue and James Mooney, Butte detective.

NAB WOMEN IN STRIKE FIGHT

SAN PEDRO, Dec. 26. (AP)—Police arrested five unemployed women cannery workers and charged them with suspicion of kidnaping today after seven employes of the Coast Fishing company cannery were forced from a bus en route to the cannery and driven several blocks up the street.

Two women employes were temporarily blinded by a powder hurled in their faces. Another, an expectant mother, was gouged in the eye. She fainted.

ANAHEIM GIRL'S WEDDING REVEALED CHRISTMAS EVE

Geraldine Yoder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Yoder, 609 South Philadelphia street, Anaheim, gave her parents a real thrill Christmas eve when she announced that plans for her wedding that night would not be carried out. She and Knox Crow, the groom-to-be, were guests at her parents' home when the revelation was made.

Miss Yoder, however, removed bewilderment from the faces of her parents by telling them that she was not to be married because the ceremony already had been performed. In fact, it was performed last Aug. 12 at Riverside.

SERA BUDGETS ORDERED CUT

Cuts in State Emergency Relief administration budgets for Orange county totaling approximately $7000 monthly today were ordered by state headquarters of the administration, owing to lack of finances for carrying on the administration's work.

Terrence Halloran, Orange county director, announced that clothing and incidental budgets would be eliminated altogether. The clothing budget amounts to from $1 to $10 a month, for about 2100 families on SERA rolls. Incidental budgets are for sums from $1 to $15 monthly.

The budgets for SERA cases are being reduced to the bare necessities of life, Mr. Halloran said.

POLICE REPORTS

Gabriel Obiedo, 1832 West First street, Santa Ana, reported that sometime last night the tail light and horn had been stolen from his car while it was parked downtown.

Burglary: Mrs. W. D. Ranney, 2321 North Park boulevard, reported that while she was entertaining guests Tuesday night, a burglar entered the rear bedroom through a window and stole two purses, the property of Mrs. C. L. Ranney, 2456 Heliotrope drive, and Mrs. Oliver Kent, Huntington Park. The contents totaled $15 in cash.

Fred Seifert, 2614 Valencia street, Santa Ana, reported that sometime last night a tool box and two tail lights had been stolen from his car while it was parked in the downtown area.

G. W. Bassett, jr., 701 North Main street, reported yesterday that on the night of Dec. 21 someone stole a tire cover from his car.

C. O. Barney, Jenkins' Sandwich shop, South Main street, reported a group of young people had stolen some glasses from the cafe and had left in a car bearing an Iowa license plate. Officers overtook the car on Santa Ana boulevard near the Santa Ana river bridge and brought the occupants to the station. They had three glasses which they said they had taken for souvenirs. No arrests.

Lee Trujillo, Dyer road, Delhi, had driven his car east on Dyer road and had knocked down three mail boxes. He was found repairing the damage when officers reached the scene. No arrests.

COURT BRIEFS

Jules Buehler and Mary Ursula Buehler have started suit in superior court against the John P. ills organization, Inc., and others, seeking judgment for $1158.30. The plaintiffs asserted that they entered a contract with the defendants for purchase of property at Encinitas Highlands and that terms of the contract were not carried out by the defendants. The case was brought here from the municipal court at Los Angeles on a change of venue.

Claude Coffman has appealed to the superior court from a verdict of the Anaheim justice court which awarded Sam and Patricia Lindboom an $89.60 judgment against him as a result of an automobile accident Nov. 16, 1933, at Olive and Sycamore streets, Anaheim. Mr. Coffman filed suit in the Anaheim court, asking judgment for $119.29, and when the court awarded judgment to the defendants, he appealed the case.

Effie J. Lucas yesterday petitioned the superior court for authority to accept $50 for compromise of a disputed claim of her son, Earl Lucas, agaisnt Everett N. Freeman, W. B. Haney and Mabel G. Haney. The claim arose from an accident at Seventeenth and Baker streets, Santa Ana, last April 30.

Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel in superior court has approved compromise of a disputed claim of Robert F. Jelensky against Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Bower, based on an accident at Tracy and Wright streets, Santa Ana, last July 22. The settlement was for $175. The petition for authority to compromise the claim was filed by Robert Jelensky, father of the boy.

Clarence J. Cook has appealed to superior court from a judgment of the Laguna Beach justice court, awarding A. J. Stead $64.50 for engineering services assertedly rendered between March 30 and May 25, 1934.

A. P. Perrin has filed suit in superior court against C. K. Cole, asking judgment for $1520 asserted to be due on a promissory note executed Dec. 30, 1930.

Elberta L. Jackson has filed suit against the Alliance Mutual Life Insurance association, asking the superior court to award judgment for $1353.25. The complaint said the plaintiff had secured judgment for this amount last Sept. 21 in the circuit court of Howard county, Mo., but that the judgment has not been paid.

MORE ABOUT YOUTH

cause only one young man and three of the girls "necked" the first time they went on a date. Twenty-five of them said they didn't and only six did after less than five dates. Four girls and one boy never did.

He's Too Awkward

One young man from a wistful pen wrote he didn't neck on the first date. "I'm too awkward," he answered.

The odds are for them in religious matters. Twenty-one of them against 10 pray; 22 against seven go to church; 19 against 12 believe in a personal God. The comparison between boys and girls is about even.

Seven of the girls liked "intellectual talkers" and "athletes" for dates; five preferred dancers or "serious, sweet" boys. Three liked good spenders and one liked a poet or romantic type. One of the girls turned "thumbs down" on all of those, but indicated that she planned to be married.

Brunettes Win

Fellows preferred brunettes slightly over blondes, while redheads were "out" with only two votes. Short girls got 12 votes, and tall, six.: One boy was noncommital and agreed on a "medium." Listeners or talkers are all the same. One boy wants both. Athletic type girls definitely took the floor over the round, soft girl and four boys liked their dates to smoke. Two of them would rather that they didn't smoke, drink, flirt or swear.

Twenty-three of them had no squeams against inviting a Japanese to a party, while 12 said "no." The girls were 12 to 4 in favor of it and the fellows only 11 to 8.

They were faced with this problem: "If you were given the minimum relief appropriation and could conceal the fact that you had obtained a job paying $15 a week, would you voluntarily relinquish the relief subsidy?" Sixteen boys and 16 girls said they would; only three fellows said they'd keep it.

Nine of them would write personal letters on the boss' time but the other 29 said "no." One boy added, however, that he'd never written letters and he didn't see any point in starting on the company's time.

If they knew the boss was having an affair with a girl in the office, one of them would tell the boss' wife and 10 would speak to the girl. Twenty-two of them had read about Thelma Todd's death in the newspapers before they did about the local water bond election.

Twelve to 21 would go to war; 11 to 23 would vote for the Townsend plan; and 20 to 13 would vote for Roosevelt. Ten of them thought Huey Long should have been murdered.

They're Hopeful

They're hopeful about their position in life five years from now. One expects to make $250; six, $200; one, $180; five, $175, six, $150; three, $125, and three $100 per month. Three of them expected to be still in school and some didn't have any idea. Those making $100 would have been willing to get married.

They felt responsible to their families. When asked if they would save $5 a week from their $20 wage for a trip, or give it to their family, who could well use the funds, 23 said they would give it to the family while eight would take the trip. One fellow remarked: "I'd be a sap and give it to the family."

And there you have the 1936 eligibles.

City Librarian Finds Much Of Interest In Reviewing New Books on Shelves Here

By Ethel Walker, Librarian
Santa Ana Public Library

The travel books on the "inspection shelf" this week would provide enough material for a world tour of the "easy chair" variety. The reader may wander through the icy wastes of Alaska, drift leisurely through the beautiful waterways of France and Germany, continue on into the Arabian desert to live among nomadic tribes or fly over African jungles with the Martin Johnsons.

"Through Forbidden Tibet," by Harrison Forman gives us another glimpse of a land of mystery. The author says in his preface "With almost hopeless desperation the contemporary explorer looks about him for new worlds to conquer, and yet in the heart of ageless Asia, brooding darkly in the shadow of the unknown, is to be found a veritable explorer's paradise—Tibet, the strange and fascinating, forbidden land of magic and mystery"—with an area almost one-fourth of the United States, nearly the whole of which is over ten thousand feet elevation.

"Lost Horizon"

By the way, if you like books about Tibet, and are one of the few who haven't read James Hilton's "Lost Horizon," by all means do so as soon as possible.

In "Cradle of the Storms," Father Hubbard, "The Glacier Priest" author of "Mush, You Male Mutes!" gives us the dramatic story of exploration in the Alaskan Peninsula and the Aleutian Islands. He records the witnessing of "the birth of an iceberg" a phenomna hitherto unrecorded in scientific annals.

"The Great Trek," by Max Miller, is, to quote the sub-title, "the story of a five-year drive of a reindeer herd through the icy wastes of Alaska and northwestern Canada."

"The San Luca," by Cilette O'Faire is one of those delightfully charming travel books which it is always a pleasure to read and remember. The author and her husband, both artists and French, "beat" the depression by living on a rehabilitated boat and drifting about on the canals and rivers of France, Germany, Holland and Czechoslovakia.

Off the Path

Two books which are "off the beaten path" are "Black Tents of Arabia," by Carl R. Raswan, and "Over African Jungles," by Martin Johnson. Johnson's book is the record of what he calls a "glorious adventure" over big game country, 60,000 miles by airplane and accompanied by Mrs. Johnson. The book is profusely illustrated with photographs.

Lowell Thomas' "Untold Story of Exploration" completes the travel book list.

History and Biography

The newest version of the highly popularized story of the famous mutiny of H. M. S. Bounty is "The Saga of the Bounty," edited by Irwin Anthony. The original diaries, accounts and testimony of Captain Bligh, Messrs Christian and Fryer, and other principals have been arranged chronologically into an amazing tale.

"Charmed Circles," by Chatfield-Taylor is a panoramic history of society from ancient Greece to the present, giving us a colorful and lively picture of social growth, through Byzantian pageantry down to the coffee houses of Dr. Johnson's time and on to our own historic spots.

"Adventures of General Margot" is a translation and abridgement of the memoirs of General Marbot, cavalry leader in Napoleon's army.

Walker's Book

Stanley Walker, former city editor of the New York Tribune, and author of several popular books, has written a particularly brilliant and amusing book, and called it "Mrs. Astor's horse." The title is taken from the expression current in the gay '90's "dressed up like Mrs. Astor's horse." It is an amusing satire on some of the "things Americans should not have done," the foibles of past and present generations of Americans.

"The Du Pont Dynasty," by John T. Winkler, is another revealing and valuable contribution to Americana. It is the story of a great industrial family, who descended, five generations back, from a Huguenot watchmaker.

During the Russian revolution a young Russian, Nicholas Wreden, escaped over the Finnish border into Esthonia, and made his way to America. He is now thoroughly oriented into American life and runs a successful book shop in St. Louis. In the book "The Unmaking of a Russian," he has recorded the thrilling personal adventures of his escape and subsequent Americanization.

Of Social and Political Interest

Horrabin's "Atlas of Current Affairs" states clearly and definitely the purpose of the book in the preface, namely to be "merely a short and simply guide to the key facts and key places in the world of today." A cursory scanning would lead one to believe that it has accomplished that purpose quite satisfactorily.

"Man the Unknown," by Alexis Carrel, is a non-fiction best seller and is being widely discussed. The author, a distinguished scientist, has wandered too far afield into the realm of the mystics to please the pure scientists, who are expressing somewhat freely their disproval.

Winifrd Holtby, author of "Mandoa, Mandoa!" popular sociological novel, has deserted the field of fiction for facts and in "Women in a Changing Civilization," shows the effects of Facism and Communism on women's social position in the modern world.

Crafts and Hobbies

When the Christmas activities are behind us and we can settle down again to leisurely living, books on crafts and hobbies will be more and more appreciated. "The American Annual of Photography" for 1936 has much valuable and inspiring information for the photography enthusiast.

"Embroidery Design," by Booker; "Tin Can Craft," by Hamilton, which opens an entirely new field of metal-craft at very little cost for materials; Leighton's "Four Hedges," a delightful garden book; of which one reviewer says, "Within its covers the garden itself seems to flower"; Mellen's "One Thousand and One Questions About Your Aquarium"; all are practical and helpful.

The books mentioned are on "inspection" at the library and will go into circulation Saturday.

Books may now be renewed by telephone, initiating a new service to the public.

THINK OF IT!

A SINGLE SLICE OF BUTTER COSTS MORE THAN THE GAS TO COOK A FAMILY MEAL

One slice of butter won't go very far. You'd use it all on a baked potato. Yet even a slice (eight to a quarter pound) costs more than the Natural Gas to cook a family dinner in the average home.

Economy, however, is but one of the reasons why Natural Gas is preferred. Another reason is efficiency. For cooking, water heating, house heating or refrigeration this fine fuel is best.

Visit your dealer or Gas Company. Now is the time to see the smart new heating appliances that provide Controlled Winter Comfort. They may be purchased on exceptionally low terms.

HUNTINGTON BEACH RESIDENT STRANGLED BY OVERALLS

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's Rambling County Editor

By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

WELL, that's over.

Now, puffed up to an alarming rotundity by Christmas turkey and pudding and candy and cookies, we're spending Christmas night massaging our aching midsection with one hand, the typewriter with the other, and wishing that this here now colyum would fill itself without such effort on our part.

Almost everyone'll agree that it was a most successful Yuletide, but I imagine there wouldn't be many votes to have it twice a year. Once, we think, is plenty.

Just wondering what sort of a holiday those residents of Stewart Station, out between La Habra and Brea, had.

Couple of days before Christmas they were all quarantined because one of the kids had infantile paralysis. We forgot to offer our sympathy. Bet Santa Claus came, even if they did have to stay in their houses.

Must have been an unpleasant sort of celebration for 'em, however, wondering which one was going to become ill next. We wish 'em the best of luck, anyway.

Went chamber of commercing with our boss, Ray Felton, Tuesday. We visited the Placentia chamber, and if our stock with him didn't come up a couple of points, it wasn't the fault of Warren Bradford or Frank Rospaw, Placentia publisher. They told The Boss so many nice things that we'll probably be forced to work twice as hard from now on to live up to 'em.

We're not saying this to protect the family payroll—The Boss made a nice speech. It was interesting. Also short. Showed how perseverance and determination will win out, even in the newspaper business. Harry Easton and Harold Lang, Dr. Brigham, Stew Strathman, Dave Brann, Louie Jacobsen, Ray Easton, S. James Tuffree, and the rest of the gang there paid one of their best tributes. They didn't argue with the speaker. Which was most unusual. We'd think they were losing their grips, if we hadn't seen 'em quiet on a few other occasions.

Like to throw a couple of hats in the air and shout for the Men's club in San Clemente. Fresh out of hats, but we'll whoop a couple of times for Roy Strang and the club, anyway.

Christmas eve they gave their annual party for kids in their town. It was a real party, with real presents, from what we have heard. Lots of young 'uns did right well by themselves, from all reports. Candy and popcorn and presents and a Santa Claus—what more could kids want, anyway?

They raised money for the event by dances and other such function. They raised quite a stake, and spent it all on the big shindig. Seems like San Clemente's a nice place to be young.

Also a few remarks from our pat-on-the-back department for the Anaheim Kiwanians and the Orange 20-30ers. Anaheim club members each brought an underprivileged child to their dinner meeting on Tuesday. Gave 'em a full stomach and a gift or two. Nice idea, what?

And at Orange the 20-30 gang staged a big drive and collected every used toy in that part of the country. They repaired every toy they could lay their hands on and then handed 'em out to those who weren't going to get very many on the regular visit of Santa Claus.

Don't know just what reward such organizations—and there are lots of 'em in the county—get from doing such thoughtful deeds. But I'll bet it aids some of 'em in sleeping at night to think that they're made the day a bit brighter for some youngster.

Come along with us to San Juan Capistrano for the next day or so. If you're so foolish as to read this every day, you'll have to, anyway. It'll be worth the time to run down there, especially Saturday evening, and see how their "sanctuary week" is working out.

As we've remarked several times, in the old days everyone was welcome during Christmas week at all homes. Criminals and others staying away from the law were welcomed just as anyone else. As a sort of modification of the plan, they're welcoming anyone who wants to come to their town during the week.

If anyone hasn't been through the mission, it'll be a good time to make the trip. You might get a chance to hear some of the strolling troubadores, or see some of the honest-to-goodness Spanish dancers.

And, personally, we're going to peek into a few houses and see if there isn't a bank robber or bootlegger under the beds.

Well, that's that. In spite of the oversupply of turkey, we should be about to the bottom of the page, unless the shop forein the corner or turns the bottom man fools us and sticks an "ad" part of the column over.

And anyone who makes any remarks about the quality of the work can get his two cents back. If he can catch us!

G. W. SHIRLEY VICTIM OF ACCIDENT

Strange Death Is Due To Fall, Belief; Coroner To Investigate

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — Local and county authorities today were investigating what they termed one of the strangest deaths in the county in many years, that of George W. Shirley, 55, local oil worker who, they reported, was strangled by his overalls yesterday in his home, 312 Tenth street.

Mr. Shirley apparently slipped and fell, they said. His overall suspenders caught in a knob of a door, and the bib on the garment, lodged under his chin, strangled him, according to the police report.

D. W. Snow, a friend, reported the death to police. He told officers he had spent yesterday morning with Mr. Shirley, leaving about noon. When he returned last evening he discovered the body.

EXPECT LEWIS YACHT SOON

NEWPORT BEACH.—Word has been received at Newport harbor that Capt. Fred E. Lewis, wild game hunter and world traveler, who maintains a large home in Balboa, will arrive in San Diego harbor about Jan. 5.

He will sail into this port shortly afterward in his new 247-foot motor ship, "Stranger," with his crew of 13 Sea Scouts whom he has been "treating" to a cruise from the Atlantic seaboard where he purchased the new craft.

The boys traveled to the eastern coast by rail last August and have been seeing the sights of the Atlantic seaboard before cruising through the Panama Canal to the Galapagos islands.

325 AT ORANGE CLUB DINNER

ORANGE. — A turkey dinner, was the treat given 325 needy children by the combined service clubs of Orange Tuesday noon at the American Legion hall. The dinner was prepared by members of the American Legion auxiliary, with members of the Lions, 20-30 and Rotary clubs serving.

Santa Claus, impersonated by Walter Weimer, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Bess Coe at the piano accompanied community singing. Al Drumm, president of the Lions' club welcomed guests and Dr. Robert B. McAulay and William Wade spoke briefly on behalf of the Rotary and 20-30 clubs. Carl Stuckey, who last year originated the idea of the party, was also introduced as was Mrs. Flora Fairbairn of the Legion auxiliary. Merle Weimer played a piano solo, and Chad Robinson sang. Hector Tarango and his harmonica band played several numbers.

Dressed in the native costume of Czeckoslovakia, Joe Kozina, Villa Park, played his accordian and banjo. Santa Claus presented each child a large red apple, wrapped in colored tissue. J. T. McInnis was chairman of the waiters' committee, with Bob Robinson program chairman. Clubs making the affair possible were the Rotary, Lions, 20-30, Business and Professional Women and American Legion auxiliary.

Lacy Knit in a Smart One-Piecer

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Simple Lines and Lovely Lacy Weave Make a New Knit Dress

PATTERN 5411

THURSDAY, DEC 26 .... ETAOIN

"You made it yourself?" Admiring friends are immediately impressed, and well they may be, though few realize how easy it is to knit. The body of this one-piece dress is a lovely, lacy stitch. Plain knitting forms a yoke that is all-in-one with the rest of the dress. The plain sleeves and collar are knitted separately.

In pattern 5411 you will find instructions for making the dress in sizes 16-18 and 38-40 with long or short sleeves; an illustration of it and of all stitches used; material requirements.

Huntington Beach Pastor Finds 'Santa' Generous

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — The Rev. J. G. Hurst, pastor of the Huntington Beach Christian church, learned on Christmas eve that there is a Santa Claus.

At the annual children's party at the church, after kiddies of the community had been given candy and toys, Alf Dowdy, church official, gave the Rev. Mr. Hurst, $200 to be used toward completion of his new home here.

Coast L-i-n-e-s

By McDONALD WHITE

"Did you ever hear about the robbers' cave in Laguna?" That was the astounding question asked by Mrs. Oscar Warling, who first visited Laguna 60 years ago. "I can remember my first trip down here just as plain as if it were yesterday," she went on. "There was only one house in Laguna proper then, and that belonged to Henry Goff. My grandfather, Henry Rogers, owned all the land around what is now Temple Hills, and the Woman's club. He had taken up all this land from the government. Everybody raised sheep in those days. Say, there were sheep ranches from Balboa all the way down to San Diego."

"And don't forget all the wild cattle and horses that roamed the hills then, too," her husband contributed as he came in. "A fella had to pack two guns to be safe in those days. There were rustlers and bands of robbers likely to stick you up. And those wild cattle were mean critters, too. A man wasn't safe on foot. You had to have a horse under you every place you went, and plenty of shootin' apparatus if the horse went down from under you."

"Say, you tell what you know about that robbers' cave," suggested Mrs. Warling to her husband. "He seems to want to know about that."

Seeing is believing, so we went up Laguna canyon two miles to have a look at it. We stopped the car just before starting around that long, 85 degree turn. On the right, headed towards Santa Ana, the hills shoot almost straight up to a rocky ridge outlined against the sky.

"There. Can you see that cave that goes back under the rock?" Mrs. Warling pointed to a deep, natural declevity just below the top, so plain that anybody could spot. "The story goes that—. Well, first, before I tell you about the robbers, look over here on the other side of the road. Old Man Fountain used to live back in there. He built a shack—the first one up the canyon—and he married an Indian squaw who used to cook pancakes for the robbers when they were hiding up there. But, say, Oscar, maybe you'd better tell about the robbers."

"Well," said Oscar, scuffling his trim cowboy boots, "all I know about it is the stories that went around when I was a boy. Now if you'll notice," he said, pointing up to the cave, "there's plenty of space for a bunch of bad hombres to hide out in there. And another thing, they could see all the way to Santa Ana, including every road and trail that led down to Laguna or El Toro. They'd spot their victims from their perch up there, then go over the ridge and, hiding behind rocks, surprise 'em with a stick-up."

The telling and the locale of this yarn was so realistic that it seemed strange that a kiyipping band of masked bandits didn't suddenly swirl around the bend in a cloud of dust and unheroically frisk their own historians.

But as Mr. Warling was saying, "When the robbers got back to their cave, they had to lower themselves down by a rope. The face of that rock is so steep, that's the only way to get in. I know, because I've been up there.

"It made a regular fortress. The story goes that the sheriff and an armed posse tried to blast them out once or twice, but those boys were tough. They used that cave for a hide-out for several years, robbing the travelers that rode the range in the early days."

He relighted what little remained of his cigar and once more squinted into the past. "Course," he said, "most folks like to hear the end of a yarn. Otherwise, what's the use of startin'. Seems the sheriff and his posse finally caught up with that bunch of outlaws. No, they didn't catch them in their cave. They sneaked up on them unawares one day over at Sheriff's springs, back of Trickey's ranch. That's about two miles this side of Irvine. But the sheriff got killed in that battle. Since then the old cave up there has been deserted. Old Man Fountain and his shack are gone, along with his squaw. Lots of folks living in through here now, you see, but they're all newcomers. Probably never heard this tale.

"Guess that's all I remember about the robbers' cave, as it was told to me years ago by the early settlers. But there it is up there, for anybody to see."

Traffic has been opened on the new railway bridge over the river Irtysh, near Omsk (Western Siberia).

Monk Moscrip Ready to Play Against Mustangs; Cards Move South

Santa Ana Journal
SPORTS
SANTA ANA, ORANGE COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1935

Column Left

—By— FRANK ROGERS

Since this is the official season of peace on earth and good will toward men—not to mention the ladies—perhaps we shouldn't holler about ignominies. But we can't help it. Someone handed us a peachy one.

It is, appropriately enough, about basketball.

A basketball game in which the score—and we can prove it—was 91 to 0! Yes, 91 to 0! We challenge all records with that. Did you ever hear of a basketball game with one team going scoreless?

Our Saleh, a mountainous guy who run the thunderous stereotyping machine in The Journal's press room, played on that game and we pried the information out of him.

Several Santa Anan's remember this conte —played Jan. 7, 1925—because it was only a hop and skip away. At San Pedro.

Ed was high point man, scoring 34 points, although faded newspaper clippings in recording the event declare "he only played a short while." San Pedro High school was the victor and the pre-game favorites, Lomita High school, the victims.

Insult was added to injury when the Lomita gang erased their goose egg technically by scoring a free throw. Then the referee declared a rule had been fractured and took the point away hapless Lomitans.

Another former Santa Anan, one Mr. Braley, a barber, played in the lightweight game that day.

Short stuff: Here's a new idea in golf . . . The suggestion has been made by Phillip Ross of Montreal, twice a member of the Eastern Canada Leslie cup team. . . . Why not combine it with Gene Zarazen's proposal for eight inch cups and your correspondent might be able to take home a card that won't have to be consigned to the fireplace.

Ned Brown, veteran New York sports writer who has seen most of the good ones come and go, says the man who beats Joe Louis will do it with fast left hooks . . . A bale hook, perhaps? . . . There's no need for the S. R. O. sign in the Alabama Pitts basketball tour, we read . . . Jimmy Crowley's eyes will be dreamy with memories when he enters the Rose Bowl to scout Southern Methodist on New Year's day. It will be his first visit to Pasadena since he rode to glory and victory there as one of the four horsemen 11 years ago.

Here's an answer to the "College Football is Only a Steppin Stone to Professional Gridiron" clique that yelps every now and then. Only a few of Stanford's mighty Cardinals are planning to take up the cash game.

Most of them, press reports maintain, have worked their way through school. Bones Hamilton and Monk Moscrip assert they would coach temporarily if given the opportunity. Hamilton wants to get into business; Moscrip will take any old job.

Topping has a job waiting in the movie studios. Reynolds will work in the oil business. Rouble hopes to teach. Muller has hopes of being a mechanical engineer.

Paulman has aviation plans and Grayson would like to graduate from law school. He would take a coaching job for a few years to stack up a job. If he should get a mentor's position, he says he would "open up the game."

CRAYNE SHIFTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26. (AP) Dick Crayne, University of Iowa fullback, will be shifted to right halfback on the so-called "first" team today to replace injured Walter Cruice of Northwestern, coaches of the eastern squad said in resuming practice for the East-West charity game here New Year's day.

UPSETTERS

AMONG THE upsetters of the sports world in 1935 were Jimmy Braddock, conqueror of Max Baer; Wilmer Allison, victor over Fred Perry; Sam Parks, U. S. Open champion; Northwestern, triumphant over Notre Dame; Azucar, Santa Anita Handicap winner, and Eulace Peacock, who beat Jesse Owens in the A. A. U. broadjump and 100-meter.

COMEBACKERS

ACE WINGMAN WILL START CONTEST

Famed Field Goal Star Due For Action In Rose Bowl Game

PALO ALTO, Dec. 26. (AP)—James (Monk) Moscrip, brilliant left end who has been nursing an injured knee for the past month, will start for Stanford against Southern Methodist's undefeated Mustangs in the Rose Bowl New Year's day.

Coach Claude E. Thornhill made that statement last night before leaving with part of his team for Pasadena. The squad of 39 will hold first practice in their new quarters there this afternoon.

Moscrip's torn knee cartilage has shown definite improvement in the past three days, Thornhill said. The ace place-kicker, who won three games with field goals this season, will start, although Team Physician Fritz Roth says his knee will permit him to play "not more than 15 minutes—possibly less."

Moscrip will wear an elastic band around the injured knee.

Thornhill commented that his team has a "very good chance" to break its losing streak at Pasadena and it is time the Indians "win a Rose Bowl game for a change." Stanford will be the "under dog"—exactly what Thornhill hoped for.

The same team that has opened every contest this season will start against the Mustangs in the big classic, the head coach announced. He will have Moscrip and Keith Topping at the flanks, Reynolds and Beedle at tackles, Adams and Rouble, guards, and Wes Muller at center.

MUSTANGS LEAVE FOR ROSE BOWL

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 26. (AP)—A warning that "we're not going to any tea party" was handed out to the Southern Methodist Mustangs today as they prepared to leave for the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Cal.

"There's not going to be a single bit of entertainment for you fellows before the game," Coach Matty Bell told the 31 stalwarts who will face Stanford in the post-season classic on New Year's day.

"We're going to Pasadena to try and win a football game, and prove strength of the Southwest Conference. We're not going to any tea party—you fellows know that."

To which he added that there would be plenty of entertainment after the game—"that is, if you feel in the mood."

The untied and unbeaten Mustangs will arrive at Pasadena Saturday morning.

In a biting wind, the Mustangs galloped through a brisk workout yesterday. Every man was reported in "perfect condition" after the final practice on Texas soil.

Before their departure the Mustangs were assured of a large Texas cheering section. Nine special trains, carrying approximately 2000 Texans, will leave Saturday.

Sports Standouts Who Made 1935 History

Santa Anita Filly Saves Movie Stars

Clark Gable's entry in the third race, Beverly Hills, limped in tenth in a 12-horse race, with plenty of sympathetic movie money aboard.

The actor-owner, Joe E. Brown, Bing Crosby (another horse owner), Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler and a host of other film celebrities sighed heavily and waited for the next Hollywood-owned horse to go to the post.

It was the filly, owned by Leon Gordon, prominent screen writer, in the fourth.

Up to the stretch Mumsie didn't get a call. Suddenly she flashed to the front with a terrific drive and finished neck and neck with El Bandido.

A roar went up when Mumsie's number was posted as the winner, after officials scrutinized photographs of the finish. The loudest belonged to owner Gordon.

"Boy, this calls for a drink," he shouted, and got one.

KUDO, COLUMBO MEET AGAIN

Kiman Kudo, the Japanese wrestling king and Casey Columbo, the latest young heavyweight mat star to come to the fore in this section, have been rematched for a best two out of three falls, one hour time limit bout at the Orange County Athletic club Monday night.

Columbo and Kudo wrestled to a 30-minute draw Monday night in the semi-final to the Lutze-Davis feature and fans immediately asked Promoter Sampson to sign them for a three fall bout

Because his last two matches ended in draws, Columbo held out for a finish match, but finally agreed to a one hour time limit when Kudo's request to wrestle with the Japanese jackets was refused. Columbo held Nick Lutze even, without either being able to score a fall two weeks ago.

BOXING ARENA DARK TONIGHT

The Orange County Athletic club's weekly amateur boxing card, billed for tonight, has been postponed, as previously announced, until after the holidays. Promoter Sampson is undecided as yet whether to reopen the club for boxing Jan. 2 or Jan. 9, however, it is understood that Sampson will attempt to sign the colorful Sherman Indian squad to appear on the opening bill for 1936.

The Indians made a big hit last week when they made their initial appearance at the club and fans want to see them in action again.

DIZZY DEMANDS $7000 RAISE

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 26. (AP)—Brandishing a handful of bills which his wife won at the opening of the Sulphur Springs dog track, Dizzy Dean declared today he wanted $7000 more salary from his Cardinal bosses next year.

"Sure, I'm worth $27,500," the colorful Dizzy said. "Didn't I win 28 games last year and 30 games the year before? Has any other pitcher in the National league won 58 games in two seasons in late years?

45,000 FANS SEE SEASON STARTED

Nearly Half A Million Dollars Wagered At Arcadia Park

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26. (AP)—Top Row moved further into the top rank of horse racing stars today in the wake of a sensational mile victory in the Christmas stakes at Santa Anita park.

Forty-five thousand fans, who wagered a total of $492,435 on the eight-race program, saw the great 4-year-old help usher in what promises to be a record-making season at the Arcadia plant.

Beats Ariel Cross

A. A. Baroni's little colt served warning he will be a formidable contender in the $100,000 handicap Feb. 22 when he ran the mile in 1 minute 35¾ seconds, a neck ahead of Ariel Cross and Marv two lengths back.

Top Row's time set a new track record and became one of the fastest miles listed in American turf history. It was within a fraction of the American mark of 1 minute 34 2-5 hung up over the same distance by Equipoise in 1932 at Arlington.

Baroni claimed the son of Peanuts by Too High a year ago for $3500. Today Top Row's winnings of around $100,000 placed him behind Omaha, Azucar and Discovery as the leading money winners of 1935. Yesterday's win was worth $4600.

Woolf Comes In

Jockey George Woolf, who booted Azucar into the rich handicap first money last year, rode the Baroni entry yesterday.

Carrying top weight of 124 pounds, Top Row dropped back at the start and was trailing nine lengths back of J. S. Riley's Born Happy, the leader, at the half-mile post. H. C. Hatch's Ariel Cross took command at the far stretch turn, with Marve in close quarters fighting to get through on the inside, and Top Row two lengths back.

Marv broke through and easily out-finished Crofter, a slow starter, which went into fourth place.

The winner paid $4.80, $4.20 and $3.40 on a $2 ticket.

GOLF NOMADS SEEK $4000 IN TOURNEY

PASADENA, Dec. 26. (AP)—The nation's golfing nomads put a brief Christmas rest period behind today as more than 200 of them launched into the annual Pasadena $4000 open championship.

Only a third of the field was to answer the starter's call today, with the second section going to the initial tomorrow and the third on Saturday. From the leading scorers of these three days will be selected the field for the second round of medal competition on Sunday. The final two rounds of the 72 holes come up Monday.

Harold McSpaden, champion, who will be asked to defend three crowns before the 1935-1936 tournament parade closes, was not listed among today's starters. He will get the call either tomorrow or Saturday.

Featured among today's performers will be Walter Haben, Eddie Loos, Pat Abbott, winner of the Southern California open at Glendale; Rufus King, jr., fine amateur from Dallas Tex.; Vic Ghezzi, who was tied for first money in the Los Angeles open last year; Jimmy Hines and Herman Barron.

Many of the golfers who have been campaigning in Florida will augment the list of stars that competed in the Southern California open, including Horton Smith, Wiffy Cox, Ky Laffoon, Jimmy Thompson and perhaps Sam Parks jr., national open titleholder.

Fullerton's Arky Vaughan Hangs Up Some New Marks

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (AP)—Floyd (Arky) Vaughan, swatting shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who is a Fullerton, Calif. boy, was the leading hitter of the National league in the 1935 season. Vaughan, whose batting average was .385, banged out a slugging percentage of .607 by making his 192 hits go for a total of 303 bases in 499 times at bat. The "miscellaneous" records for the season, made public today, also disclose that Vaughan drew more bases on balls than any other National league player, 97, and that he hit into only five double plays. It was his second straight year as leader in walks.

VAUGHAN

Joe Medwick of St. Louis, second in the batting race, also was the second best slugger with a .576 average, although his total base figure, .365, was the highest in the league. Mel Ott of the Giants was third with .555 and Wally Berger, much sought Boston Belter, fourth at .548.

Berger proved the most effective clouter, batting in 130 runs, four more than Medwick. Ernie Lombardi, big Cincinnati catcher, struck out only six times in 120 games while Dolph Camilli of the Phillies set a new league record by whiffing 113 times. He and Hack Wilson of the Cubs shared the old record of 94.

Young Ties Mark

Floyd (Pep) Young of Pittsburgh tied another strikeout record by fanning five times in five trips to the plate in a game against the Reds Sept. 29.

Augie Galan, who played in all of Chicago's 154 games, didn't hit into a double play all season. That is partly explained by the fact that he led off the batting order. Hank Leiber of New York hit into 20 twin killings and was hit by pitched balls 10 times.

SCALPERS REAP BIG PROFITS

Bowl Tickets Sold for $100

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN

PASADENA, Dec. 26. (AP)—In the poolroom vernacular, $4.40 will get you a hundred, if you are dealing in Rose bowl tickets of the proper location with affluent parties.

ZIMMERMAN

With approximately 84,600 seats available and more than 300,000 persons clamoring to see the football game here New Year's day between Stanford and Southern Methodist, the scalpers are riding high.

One hundred dollars is top price, of course, but a prominent Hollywood motion picture director paid it with a smile. He bought only two tickets.

Brisk Business

Most tickets are being scalped, however, at from $30 to $50 apiece for the best of the $4.40 variety with those back of the goal posts around $10 a throw.

While every effort is being made to keep down scalping, the ducat bootleggers report a brisk business. Actual profit to each individual involved is, however, small. The middleman is cutting into the racket.

One illicit ticket dealer, in a hushed voice, told of paying an original purchaser $14 each for eight. They burned his jeans for a day until the Christmas shopping rush forced him to unload for a $50 profit to a "middleman" who was peddling the lithographed pasteboards to a prominent motiin picture actor.

Plenty of Customers

While heavy scalping is being done in Hollywood, former Texans of Southern California also have been searching out the bootleggers with heavy bankrolls, and a goodly crowd of horse racing enthusiasts, here for the winter meeting at Santa Anita, are anxious to talk business.

At the present trend, it was expected that prices would be out of reach by the morning of the game, with few tickets available at any figure.

CITRUS OWLS BATTLE DON FIVE SOON

Eleven drills away from their Eastern Junior college conference inaugural with the Citrus Owls here Jan. 11, Al Reboin's Santa Ana Dons will return to the basketball floor for two hours of inter-squad training in Andrews gymnasium tonight.

The Dons also will practice tomorrow night, four days next week and five the next in preparation for the fray with Al Clayes' Citrus five.

End Season Feb. 22

Santa Ana makes only the one home appearance in January. The junior collegians battle Jesse Mortensen's Bengals at Riverside Jan. 18, Art Nunn's Yellowjackets at Fullerton Jan. 25. Chaffey of Ontario comes here Feb. 1, Santa Ana travels to San Bernardino Feb. 8, draws a bye Feb. 15, finishes with Pomona Feb. 22. That will complete their season unless the Dons gain first or second place.

Annually the two teams with the highest percentage of wins meet in a three-game playoff for the league crown and the right to play the Western conference titlist for the Southern California championship.

Riggs in East

Clarence (Tay) Riggs, forward and guard, will be missing from tonight's drill. He went east to spend the holidays with relatives in Chicago. All the other Dons, however, probably will be available, including Tommy Lacy, Harry Stanley, Ken Nissley and Bill Greschner, forwards; Fred Erdhaus and Bob Browning, centers; Leonard Lockhart, John Henry, Bob Spray and LaVern Bower, guards.

TROJANS SCORE ISLAND WIN

HONOLULU, Dec. 26. (AP)—University of Southern California, scoring in every period but the third, defeated Kamehameha High school alumni, 33-7, in a Christmas football game before 10,000 fans here.

The alumni team scored its lone touchdown in the third period, advancing the ball from their own 49 to the Trojan six by short passes and then sending Aiwohi around end to cross the goalline. Kerr kicked the extra point.

A powerful running attack gained the Trojans their first touchdown in the opening period on an 80-yard march. In the second they drove straight down the field 92 yards for another score, after having been held for downs once on the Kamehameha one-yard line.

RETURN OF GOAL POSTS TO SCORING LINE ADVOCATED

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (AP)—Six organizations directly or indirectly connected with college athletics, meet here this week to discuss football rules, spectator behavior, subsidizing and recruiting.

Although the possibility of action to alter conditions was seen, the groups' efforts in the last few years have found little success.

The annual luncheon of the sportsmanship brotherhood today starts the ball rolling.

Other meetings, getting under way today and tomorrow, are those of the National Collegiate Athletic association, the Football Coaches association, the Physical Education association, the Student Health association and the Track Coaches association.

The last five will hold a joint meeting tomorrow in honor of the thirtieth anniversary of the N. C. A. A.

Discuss Rule Changes

While the coaches are expected to devote most of their time to discussing the technical side of their trade, there will be the usual agitation for changes in the rules. Many of them still favor returning the goalposts to the goal lines, although the rules committee has not been able to agree.

Dan McGugin, former Vanderbilt pilot, proposes three alternations. He says the rules should set a standard penalty for interference with pass receivers, rather than giving the ball to the offended team at the point where interference occurs; they should provide a penalty for roughing the passer, just as a kicker is protected; and reduce the penalty on the offensive team en a forward pass strikes an ineligible player.

"The spectator problem"—which caused gray hairs to sprout on the head of more than one gridiron official during the last season, not to mention the dented skulls of some who took part in goalpost battles—is the topic of discussion for the sportsmanship brotherhood.

The N. C. A. A. will take up the same question, especially that angle of it which concerns excessive drinking by spectators, at its round table discussions, conducted by Dean E. L. Mercer, Pennsylvania.

Scholarship Problem

This organization, which last year declared "unjustifiable" any monetary subsidies for athletes, is expected to give serious consideration to the action of the Southeastern conference in letting down the bars against granting scholarships to athletes.

PITCHER LOSES DAMAGE PLEA

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26. (AP)—Archie Campbell, pitcher for the Hollywood baseball club, will have to do without that $30,000.

He asked the amount as damages because an automobile dealer broadcast his name on the radio as a satisfied customer after he had expressly said he did not want his name mentioned unless paid for it. As a result, he asserted he was "twitted" by fans and other baseball players. A superior court decision on record today denied Campbell's damage claims.

LOPEZ DEFEATS KUDO ON MAT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26. (AP)—Vincent Lopez, Mexico, 218-pound claimant to the world's wrestling title, overpowered Kiman Kudo, Japanese jiu jitsu expert, in two straight falls here last night.

Lopez felled his 170-pound opponent with a toe hold, and then clinched the match with a headlock in 45 minutes.

PLACENTIA BOY LEADS TROY

Placentia talent starring at Fullerton High school will captain University of Southern California's 1936 football varsity. He is Gil Kuhn, regular center the past season for Coach Howard Jones' Trojans.

Kuhn was honored at a dinner this week in Honolulu, where the Trojan gridders are playing holiday games with Hawaiian elevens.

OPEN SCHOOL BOND BIDS ON JAN. 21

Bids will be opened Jan. 21 by the board of supervisors on the $223,000 Santa Ana high school bond issue. The board on Tuesday afternoon adopted a resolution for selling the bonds in a lump.

A saving of several thousand dollars in construction costs is expected to result from sale of the bonds in one group and using a federal grant for the school project to retire old bonds which draw 5 per cent interest. The new bonds bear 4 per cent interest.

The bond money will be used to finance construction of two high school buildings damaged by the 1933 earthquake.

DEADLINE FOR CAMP DELAYED

The deadline has been postponed for a few days for reservations for Girl Scout winter camp and a dozen more names still will be taken for the winter sports spree at Camp Rokoli. This was the news Mrs. R. R. Russick had for Santa Ana Girl Scouts today.

The girls must be at least 12 years of age, Mrs. Russick said.

To extend from Dec. 31 to Jan. 3, the camp will have a variety of winter sports to interest the girls. Regular instruction in scouting will be given. Harrison White, Boy Scout director, Mr. Russick and Herbert Rankin will dierct the activities. Mrs. Russick, Mrs. George Ames and Mrs. Rankin are to go as advisors.

Excellent food has been promised by the cook who is famed for his pies and cakes and hot breads. The cabins are heated with stoves and have tightly-fitted doors.

Reservations are to be made with camp leaders.

BOARD REJECTS BID ON DRAIN

The board of supervisors Tuesday rejected the bid of the Macco Construction company for building the La Veta avenue storm drain. The Macco bid was low, being $23,000.

The drain is to be constructed as a Works Progress administration project. The board explained that the bid had been turned down by the WPA because it contained a provision that a permit be obtained for removing poles at the Southern Pacific crossing near El Modena. The WPA accepts no provisos in bids.

The supervisors will readvertise for new bids, which will be opened at 10:30 a. m., Jan. 14.

KIDNAPING IS FATAL TO MAN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26. (AP)—John F. Weber, 65, operator of a liquor store, died on Tuesday from shock and exposure after two robbers kidnaped and disrobed him, police reported. He was beaten before being forced to remove his clothing in a school yard. The robbers escaped with $34.

ARRAIGN BOOK MAKING SUSPECT

George Seymore, 39, of 146 North Prinston street, Fullerton, was arraigned here late Monday before Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison on charges of booking wagers following his arrest in Anaheim by Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey, Special Investigator Bob Sandon of the district attorney's office, and Chief of Police J. F. Bouldin of Anaheim.

Seymore was placed under $500 bail, with hearing on the charges set for Dec. 30 at 9 a. m.

TO TEST KIDNAP LAW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. (AP)—The supreme court has selected Jan. 13 for oral argument in the first case before it involving the Lindbergh kidnap law. Questions were raised on behalf of Arthur Gooch, of Texas and Oklahoma, who faces death for kidnaping two officers at Paris, Texas, disarming them and then injuring one before the officers were freed in Pushmataha county, Oklahoma.

21 False Alarms Lead to Nabbing Of Arson Brothers

OAKLAND, Dec. 26. (AP)—Two brothers named Arson were held incommunicado today while Fire Chief G. W. Lutke questioned them about 21 false alarms which kept 84 pieces of apparatus roaring through the streets.

Chief Lutke said the brothers, Joseph, 20, and Melvin Adson, 21, were seized by Motorcycle Officer Jack Baker, who apprehended them after police set traps.

The prank cost the city $1050 in responding to the false alarms, which began at 10:30 last night and continued until 12:30 a. m. One alarm was rung about every seven minutes.

BEST DRESSED

Miss Clarabeth Zehring, 17, of Germantown, Ohio, selected as the national champion of the best-dressed 4-H girls. She modeled a brown wool crepe dress, with a complete outfit of accessories from hat to shoes at a cost of $34.12. She is shown above in a moderate-priced garb.

How Counties In State Got Their Names

The story of how California counties derived their names is an interesting part of the history of the Golden State. Believing that the thousands of tourists who annually motor over the state's great highway system would like to know how the counties they visit came by their names, Director of Public Works Earl Lee Kelly has had prepared from state records a series of brief stories of the origin and meaning of the names of the counties of California, including a few salient facts about each county.

SANTA CRUZ COUNTY

Created Feb. 18, 1850. One of the original 27 counties. "Santa" is the Spanish feminine of "Saint" or "holy"; "Cruz" is the Spanish for "cross," and Santa Cruz signifies "holy cross," which emblem was to the devout explorers of California what it was to the Crusaders. Those who fell by the wayside had a crude cross erected over them to mark their last resting place. If anything notable occurred in any of the expeditions, a cross was set up, and all that marked the site of the mission which was founded by Padres Lopez and Salazar on Sept. 25, 1791, was the memorial cross erected to mark this site. From this the county derived its name.

Highly productive fruit orchards and farms, a wealth of natural scenery and beaches that lure thousands of vacationists combine to make this little county one of the most attractive spots in California. The city of Santa Cruz, county seat, is known as "The Atlantic City of the West."

Twenty-one distinct soil types are in evidence throughout the county. Pajaro valley claims a soil fertility comparing favorably with any area in the United States. It is famous for its apple production. Santa Cruz harvests over one-third of the state's apple crop. More than 54,000 tons of this fruit are produced annually.

With 200 miles of trout streams, Monterey bay fishing, splendid mountain camping sites, Felton Grove, or Santa Cruz county big trees, one of the finest groves of redwoods in California, the California Redwood park and wonderful beach resorts, the county is a paradise for lovers of the out-of-doors.

Few farming communities can boast a proximity to beach and mountain resorts of such a character as offered by Santa Cruz county. Within a radius of 30 miles lie Del Monte, Monterey, Santa Cruz, Capitola, Rio del Mar, Seacliff, Bob Roy, Pebble Beach, Pacific Grove, Ben Lomond, Brookdale, Boulder Creek, Felton, the Big Trees and California Redwood park.

Watsonville is the center of the apple-growing district. It is the third largest shipping point between Los Angeles and San Francisco. Its huge packing houses and canneries are impressive. Population: 37,433. Area: 435 square miles.

PETTICOAT RULE NEARS FINISH

OAK PARK, Ga., Dec. 26. (AP)—Oak Park, where a burning jail last year was accepted generally as a signal of masculine disgust at the election of a petticoat government, is to be man's town again in 1936.

The ticket of women officials, with one exception, decided not to run for re-election, and the men won by default.

"I think I've got about enough of politics," said the mayor, Mrs. S. S. Youmans, "but I feel we have left a better town than we found."

HOFFMAN SAYS NO REPRIEVE PLANNED FOR BRUNO 'AT PRESENT'

HAUPTMANN PLEA WILL BE HEARD SOON

Court Of Pardons To Meet Monday And May Consider Request

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 26. (AP)—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman's press representative announced today the governor had authorized him to say "at the present time" he did not contemplate a reprieve for Bruno Richard Hauptmann should the court of pardons refuse clemency.

The announcement was made as a reply to published reports that the governor would grant Hauptmann a 30-day stay of execution if the pardons court fails to act.

Authorized To Speak

William Conklin, the press representative, said Governor Hoffman would not be at his state house office today, but had authorized him to say "at the present time I have no such plan in mind."

Previously, the governor had said any report of a contemplated reprieve was "unauthorized."

A last-minute reprieve would not be unusual. One was granted John Favorito, the last man to go to the chair at state prison, and another was recently granted a Negro, Romaine Johnson, whose new death sentence has been fixed for next week.

Has Reprieve Power

The governor has power to grant reprieves any time within 90 days after Dec. 13—the date Hauptmann was re-sentenced to die. The court of pardons which has the power to commute Hauptmann's sentence to life imprisonment, will meet on Monday to consider another matter and may act on his plea at that time.

EX-ARKANSAS GOVERNOR DIES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. (AP)—Former Governor Charles H. Brough of Arkansas died today.

He was 59 years old. Mrs. Brough said death was caused by angina pectoris. He was governor from 1917 to 1921. The body is to be taken to Little Rock for burial tentatively planned for Sunday.

Brough is survived by his widow and stepmother, Mrs. Cora S. Brough of Los Angeles. There were no children.

Fire Hydrants At Carmel Look Like a Rainbow

CARMEL, Dec. 26. (AP) — This little village of much-heralded art colonies is nothing if not color conscious, and when Fire Chief Robert Leidig ordered fire hydrants painted red, green, yellow and blue, to indicate varying degrees of water pressure, he precipitated hot arguments.

Don Staniford, merchant, protests it makes the Main street look "like a candy stick, with the crazy colors." Artist Paul Whitman insists from an artistic point of view it is entirely au fait, and preserves the jealously nurtured tradition of being "different." City Attorney Argyll Campbell says Chief Leidig was acting within his rights, anyway, and protesters might as well like the result.

LIFE IN 1935

7. Big Names In Marriage, Divorce News

By HERBERT YAHRAES
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

The year's drama brought many a heart throb, many an ache, as the story of marriage and divorce in high places unfolded.

John Smith saw some of his real-life heroes and heroines join hands till death do us part, watched others take separate paths.

Heiress Barbara Hutton provided double excitement. First she divorced her prince, Alexis Mdivani—killed a few months later in an automobile accident; then, almost immediately and still in Reno, she acquired another title by marrying Count Court von Haughwitz-Reventlow.

'Richest Girl' Marries

Heiress Doris Duke, "richest girl," became the bride of James R. Cromwell, business man, writer, former husband of Delphine Dodge, in a ceremony almost provokingly unostentations.

Another quiet wedding united Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall and John Boettiger.

Hollywood contributed plenty of throbs for those who take their romance vicariously. The first 11 months saw 44 marriages and 42 new break-ups—including divorces, estrangements, annulments—among film notables, as compared with 65 marriages and 54 break-ups during the whole of 1934.

Harlow Divorced

Jean Harlow won a decree from Cameraman Hal Rosson, her third husband, Virginia Cherrill divorced Cary Grant, Clara Grant Ray divorced Charles Ray, Elissa Landi divorced Cecil Lawrence, Clark Cable and Ria Langham admitted parting.

Other filmland "casualties:" Kay Francis and Kenneth McKenna, Colleen Moore and Al Scott, Adrienne Ames and Bruce Cabot, Claudette Colbert and Norman Foster, Joan Blondell and George Barnes, Barbara Stanwyck and Frank Fay.

Barrymore Episode

Perhaps cinemaland's biggest real-life thrill for John Smith came in connection with the Dolores Costello-John Barrymore parting. As the great lover sped for Hollywood, shortly before Miss Costello won her divorce, Elaine Barrie, his guest on a cruise, chased him across half the continent, gave the country a two-day chuckle, failed to find her speeding Romeo.

Hollywood happy endings included Moran and Col. Clarence M. Young, Songstress Marion Talley and Voice Teacher Adolph Eckstrom, Producer Max Reinhardt and Actress Helene Thimig, Esther Ralston and W. W. Morgan, Errol Flynn and Lili Damita, Lyda Roberti and Bud Ernst, Raul Roulien and Conchita Montenegro, Producer Winfield Sheehan and Maria Jeritza, Helen Vinson and Racqueteer Fred Perry, Sylvia Sidney and Publisher Bennett Cerf, Norman Foster and Sally Blaine—and, climaxing an admittedly arduous wooing, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone.

Royalty contributed to John Smith's romantic fare with the wedding of King George's third son, the Duke of Gloucester, and Lady Alice Montague-Douglas-Scott.

Joe Louis' Gesture

Max Baer and Joe Louis, who squared off in the year's biggest boxing match, made quite a splash with wedding rings, too. Playboy Baer sprang a surprise by marrying quiet, pious Mary Ellen Sullivan in Washington. Louis, crown prince of boxing, staged a superb gesture by marrying Marva Trotter, toast of Chicago Harlem, just before he entered the ring to strike down Baer.

Washington offered the year's outstanding November-June romance—the marriage of Senator Wiliam Gibbs McAdoo, 71, and Nurse Doris I. Cross, 26. Said the senator: "Every year I am getting younger, and there's nothing I can do about it."

Mrs. Eugene Vidal, wife of the chief of the bureau of air commerce, won a Reno divorce after 13 years of marriage, three months later married Hugh R. Auchinclos, wealthly Washington investment broker.

Two orchestra leaders clashed the wedding cymbals, Eddie Duchin marrying the socially prominent Marjorie Oelrichs, and Ben Bernie marrying Dorothy Patricia Wesley of Miami.

WATER TUNNEL NEAR COMPLETION

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26. (AP)—Completion of a three-year job, the 18-mile East Coachella tunnel of the Metropolitan Aqueduct, is at hand.

Workmen today cleared the last rock barrier preparatory to holing through the bore, set for Jan. 2. The tunnel is part of the $220,000,000 project to bring Colorado river water to Los Angeles and nearby communities.

John Smith, with his eye ever on the news of romance in high places, saw many big names join hands at the altar and as many, it seemed, part ways when the divorce court gavel had sounded the knell of prominent marital ventures.

WINGS FOR SANTA MARIA!

Transatlantic Air Trips Set

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (AP)—The Santa Maria will take wing next year.

Transatlantic transport service by airplane will be in the making in the next summer flight of an airliner across the ocean over which Christopher Columbus sailed his flagship almost 450 years ago.

With the projected voyage will come fresh international races for markets as the world's air routes become trade routes.

Next year, say air transport companies, will be the biggest in the history of flying since the Wright Brothers lifted their kite-like, sprocketed contraption off the sands at Kitty Hawk in 1903.

A 25-ton flying boat of Pan-American Airways will ease out over the Atlantic under the impetus of four roaring motors to plot the course of the future transatlantic air voyager.

American airplanes in the transport field already are prepared to inaugurate air mail and passenger service.

The routes are not the problem. It is competition. Supreme over the Pacific, American aviation on the Atlantic meets the challenge of those nations which will be America's neighbors when the service gets under way.

LOS ANGELES HAS 28 CHRISTMAS BABIES

LOS ANGELES.—Doc Stork put away his false whiskers and red woolen suit today after delivering 28 Christmas babies in Los Angeles. The feathered Santa Claus brought the first newcomer just 15 seconds after midnight, a 5-pound daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rooks.

'Cop And Robber' Play Ends Sadly; Boy Hangs Self

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26. (AP) Norman Redecker, 9, played "cops and robbers" around the Christmas tree in the front room of his home.

First he brandished a toy pistol and was the "robber." Then he put on a tin "detective badge" and captured himself with his own arm of the law.

Last night his mother, Mrs. Laura Lila Redecker, returned home from the Santa Anita races with friends. She found the body of her son hanging from a door, the leather leash of his pet dog around his neck.

Detective Lieutenant Lloyd Hurst said Norman had lost his life accidentally as he played out a finale to his game in which the "robber" was to be punished for his "misdeeds."

BABE CHOKES TO DEATH ON NUT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. (AP)—Thomas Norris, jr., 3, recovered from diphtheria in time to sit at the Christmas dinner table yesterday with his brother and sister.

He snatched a nut from his mother's hand and tried to swallow it. The nut lodged in his throat. Hurriedly, his father picked up the choking boy and carried him to an automobile.

But on the way to the family physician's office, a few blocks away from Norris' home at Kensington, Md., the gasoline gave out.

Frantically Norris pushed the car to the crest of a hill and rolled down to the doctor's office, but the slight delay proved tragic. The boy was dead.

MOVIE COMIC CHARGED AS ARSONIST

Ted Healy Says Doesn't Remember Trying To Set House Afire

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26. (AP)—Woeful Ted Healy, screen comedian, wondered today what his "Christmas impulse" will cost him.

After celebrating the advent of the Yuletide, he wound up in jail yesterday, accused of starting a fire in a neighbor's residence.

Tomorrow he is scheduled to appear in court for hearing on the writ of habeas corpus, by which he obtained his release under $1,000 bail.

Doesn't Remember

Wisecracks failed him as he attempted to explain the circumstances of his plight, for he said he didn't remember setting any fire.

"Somebody started a row and the next thing I knew somebody took a shot at me," he declared. "That's all I remember until the cops pinched me for doing nothing except celebrating Christmas eve. This beef is liable to cost me a $60,000 contract. At the moment I'm too sick to care about anything."

The celebration apparently began in Healy's hotel room. It ended in Santa Monica canyon, where members of the arson squad took him into custody.

Dancer Makes Charge

During the interim, Miss Bonnie Oredell, dancer, told Investigator John Mize that Healy smashed through the glass front door of her house, broke furniture and attempted to set fire to the place by piling debris on the kitchen stove.

The comedian's sister, Marcia Healy, said the house belongs to her and that her brother was just expressing a "Christmas impulse."

SCIENCE TAKES GIRL'S LIFE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. (AP)—Medical science claimed the life Christmas night of Ann Pabst, young laboratory assistant at the National Institute of Health, who contracted meningitis in line of duty.

Miss Pabst was inoculating an animal with meningitis culture Dec. 17 when the animal moved and some of the culture squirted into her eye.

Miss Pabst contracted the disease, and was taken to emergency hospital where she died last night.

DOCTOR FACING CHARGE OF TRYING TO POISON WIFE

SHANGHAI, Dec. 26. (AP) — United States District Attorney Felthan Watson of St. Louis announced today he would proceed to Tientsin Friday to investigate charges against Dr. John Solbert, accused of attempting to poison his wife.

Dr. Colbert, 50, a former student at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of St. Louis and past commander of the Tientsin post of the American Legion, was released under $25,000 bail and bound over to the United States court.

The tea room permit was granted to C. L. McWilliams, while the service station permit went to Edward E. King.

It Was Boom Time Here 48 Years Ago When Railroads Began to Come Into Town

By TED STEPHENSON

"Let her boom! For the railroads are coming—Hurrah for the railroads! The Valley—Santa Ana—Everybody—Hurrah for Hurrah!

"The A. T. & S. F. R. R. Co. At Work 'All Along the Line'—While the S. P. Co. are still surveying hereabouts."

Yes, sir, let her boom. Santa Ana's going to find herself a spot on the map. Come one—come all. Buy your lots while the prices are right. Don't hesitate. It's boom time.

It was really "boom time" 48 years ago when Santa Ana was in its infancy. The little community was a healthy child, and outside interests recognized the fact. We weren't a big community, but the old timers—the men who saved and selfishly devoted their time and money that Santa Ana might one day be the city we now see—were a closely united group. They fought together, shared victory and defeat alike.

Thanks to Pioneers

We have these old-timers to thank for what we so proudly point to as one of the best places in which to live in the world.

The "PACIFIC WEEKLY BLADE, Santa Ana, Los Angeles County, Calif., Thursday, Feb. 3, 1887," published the following article:

"Both the A. T. & S. F. and the S. P. R. R. Co's are still at work in or near this place. The former are both grading and surveying. At the present time, the A. T. & S. F. Co. are working a force of about 300 men in the Santa Ana canyon. As soon as this road is commenced to Los Angeles, this force of men will be transferred to this end of the route—this in addition to a force of 70 teams with accompanying laborers who are now grading at Aliso canyon—and the work between this place and Oceanside will be pushed to immediate completion. This company will soon commence work on their branch road between Los Angeles and this place, and the junction of their main route and this branch will be on the McHenry place, in the eastern part of town, and opposite the Spurgeon tract, heretofore purchased for them. Meanwhile, the S. P. Co. are surveying both in town and north of Tustin, and things look generally pleasant, cheerful and entertaining for Santa Ana.

"Within three or four months, the A. T. & S. F. railroad will be built and in operation, and Santa Ana will finally be on the line of a great continental railroad. 'De good time comin', it am almost here.'"

And so, the hardy pioneers looked forward to the coming of the railroads into the Santa Ana valley, knowing that they brought added opportunities for growth. It was truly a dream come true when the railroads were finally opened, and Santa Ana was for the first time in a position to seriously consider competing with the outside world.

Another article in the Pacific Blade urged citizens to organize.

"Santa Ana needs a board of trade," the article read. "Steps looking to such an organization should be taken by citizens. As long as this beautiful town was simply an out-of-the-way place in an out-of-the-way world, such an association might have been of little benefit, but the day has come when Santa Ana, with its soil, climate and beauty, is becoming advertised to the world.

"People Pouring In"

"People are pouring in here by hundreds and thousands, and it will not do to simply let them come while we rest. This is a tolerably rapid old world, and towns, like persons, must keep up with it or they will simply 'get left.' Santa Ana is having a well earned boom. Take advantage of it and a bright future is assured. The citizens of our town have more than a little to do with its prosperity or failure."

How true was the sentiment expressed in this article, written 48 years ago. It is evident on every hand today. The people who have lived here before us, did make Santa Ana what it is today.

More Boom Evidence

Here's more evidence of the boom of 1887:

"If anyone should question concerning the fourth grand excursion and auction sale conducted by the Los Angeles and Santa Ana land bureau (but none will), let him consider the figures connected therewith for a time, and all doubt and question will be removed. In the first place, about 400 excursionists came from Los Angeles to Santa Ana yesterday.

"People from the City of the Angeles, from the considerably frozen East, from neighboring towns—from Everywhere—came to Santa Ana to invest in Santa Ana property. Within two hours time, 69 lots were sold by that inimitable auctioneer, H. H. Matlock. The lots sold for an average of $340.33 each. The highest price obtained for any one lot was $555, and the lowest, $190."

WHITE HOUSE BUSY PLACE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. (AP)—President Roosevelt returned to his desk and the nation's problems today after a merry Yuletide celebration with his mother, wife, children and a grandchild.

A White House party for children, friends of little Sara Roosevelt, and her cousins, Curtis and Eleanor Dall, and some others, will wind up the Christmas round of festivities on Saturday afternoon.

Busy Day for All

After Sara plucked her lone stocking from the President's own fireplace early yesterday morning, the busy White House day began.

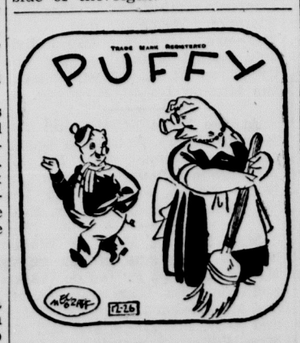

Seven members of the family attended services at the Foundry Methodist church. They were the President and Mrs. Roosevelt; his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt; his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, and two other sons, Franklin, jr., and John.

Gifts Exchanged

They heard the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy preach that only heroic souls climb the mountain peaks of life.

After church came lunch, then the opening of hundreds of packages sent from all parts of the United States to members of the family, and the exchange of personal gifts.

FIRE AT CCC CAMP FATAL FOR THREE

Others Are Burned In Conflagration At Waterbury, Vt.

WATERBURY, Vt., Dec. 26. (AP) Three army officers attached to a Civilian Conservation corps camp here were burned to death and three others were critically burned in a fire which destroyed the officers' quarters early today.

The dead were:

Capt. E. W. Boothby, Watertown, Mass.

Lieut. Leonard C. Bushey, Concord, N. H.

Those burned were Lieuts. Charles H. Brooks, Charles G. Howard and Sylvester M. Parshley.

Several other officers in the one-story wooden building at Camp Smith, on the Little River damsite, escaped uninjured.

MATEER LEADING INSURANCE SELLERS

Everett Mateer is putting Iowa on the map in Santa Ana and Orange county by leading all other salesmen in writing new business for the Bankers Life Insurance Company, of Des Moines, Ia., in the Southern California district. Everett is being pursued by Kemper Taylor, formerly manager of the Taylor Cash Stores of this city, but Kemper will have to go some if he catches up with Mateer, who is approximately 50 per cent ahead of his nearest competitor.

The organization bulletin says: "Down Santa Ana way Everett Mateer is leading the entire agency with a production of $56,248 paid-for business. This puts Everett over the $100,000 mark for the year, which is going some."

CHALMERS LEAVES $2000 ESTATE

An estate valued at approximately $2000 was left by the late Stephen Chalmers, Laguna Beach novelist, who died Dec. 14. This was revealed in a petition filed in superior court by his widow, Helen A. Chalmers, which asked that the entire estate be set aside to her.

Insurance, cash and an automobile were listed as the main items in the estate. Other heirs are Mrs. Catherine Mahoney, daughter, of Jenkentown, Pa., and Mrs. Edith Doyle, Roslyn, Pa.

Mr. Chalmers died in the Santa Ana Valley hospital after an attack of pneumonia, which followed overwork and a nervous breakdown.

Yule Logs Crackle in Many a Home in the Community as Christmas Comes

New Year's Plans Now Beginning

Spirit of Hope Renewed, Families Reunited at Holiday Parties

While a more hopeful spirit than that of the past several years lent added brightness to the yuletide holiday, yesterday saw bright fires burning in the open fireplaces, gifts weighing down hundreds of Christmas trees, and peace on earth in Orange county homes.

With plans for attending the Big Game, going to mountain or beach homes for New Year's parties, and attending New Year's eve festivities already in the air, yesterday in hundreds of homes was given over to reunions and joyous parties.

Mrs. M. Holmes' home on East Tenth street was the scene of a Christmas eve party for Mr. and Mrs. Max C. Holmes and daughters, Mary, Elizabeth and Jane; Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Holmes and children, Barbara and Donnie, Mr. and Mrs. Elon Holmes and children, Robert and Kathleen, E. M. Hulett and Mr. and Mrs. John Tessmann. Christmas breakfast and dinner were also given in the home.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Harvey and son, Harold, opened their home on North Broadway to a group of dinner guests including Mrs. Mary J. Feerrar and Miss Elizabeth Yoder, Los Angeles; Mrs. G. H. Yeo, Ashland, Ore.; Everett Yeo, Los Angeles, and Dr. George E. Stannard and Mrs. Stannard and daughter, Georgene; Mr. and Mrs. Milburn G. Harvey and daughter, Ann, and son, Gregory, of Laguna Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey and son, John Albert III and daughter, Alice, of Santa Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Ewbank and Mrs. Ewbank's mother, Mrs. Mary Rutherford of South Garnsey street, had as dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Thompson of Kilson drive.

Mrs. H. J. Baxter's home on Spurgeon street was the scene of a happy reunion dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baxter of Ripley, Mrs. Mary I. Robertson, Miss Leone Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Owen (Irma Baxter), Clifford J. Baxter and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Coon and daughter, Patty Lee.

In the home of Dr. F. W. Slabaugh and Mrs. Slabaugh, 407 West Santa Clara avenue, were reunited a group of relatives at a gay dinner party yesterday. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Krebs Reagan and son, Ronald Frank, of Palm Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl P. Hoisington, who have a lovely new home in Beverly Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Cogan's home on the Irvine ranch was the happier yesterday because their daughter, Virginia, was home from San Francisco. Also present were Misses Caro and Eleanor Cogan, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hillebrecht and children, Georgia, Jimmy and Benny.

That Misses Barbara and Roberta Horton, home from the University of Arizona, gladdened the hearts of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Horton, who yesterday at their home on South Lyon street entertained Mr. and Mrs. Chester Horton and children, Chester, jr., and Douglas; Mr. and Mrs. George Horton and son, George Alexander, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Horton.

Judge W. H. Thomas and Mrs. Thomas entertained yesterday in their home on West Chestnut avenue Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Schlack and children, Perry Wayne and Vernon, of Inglewood, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Thomas and daughter, Patricia Ann, of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Smith and daughter, Marilyn Mae, and James and Edgar Thomas.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. McKinney, 119 West Nineteenth street, yesterday at dinner were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. Warren, Attorney B. Z. McKinney and Mrs. McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. Colby McKinney and Monroe McKinney.

Ambitiously, Mr. and Mrs. Julien Lecrivain (Donna Crawford) opened their home to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Prentice, Jack and Joseph Crawford, George S. Prentice and son, Paul, Mr. and Mrs. John Messler, Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Messler, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Powell and children, Jack, Tom and Bob Powell, Mrs. H. E. Miebach, G. B. Rooney and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lecrivain and daughter, Corrinne.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McMahon and sons, Raymond, jr., and Michael of South Main street spent the holidays and will remain for the rest of the week with friends in San Francisco and Oakland.

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Erickson and Miss Verena Bailey on West Sixth street were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Dudley and children, Leslie Marie and Jack; Mrs. Margaret Dodds, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pickett, Miss Leslie Dodds, Miss Jean Dodds, William Dodds, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Malone, Margaret, Jo and George Malone, Joe Malone, Clarence Roberbs, Earl Roberbs and Mrs. William Roberbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mason, 1704 West Ninth street, had a holiday dinner with Mrs. Mason's brother, Lee M. Batesole of Los Angeles, and shared the occasion with Mrs. Mason's niece, Mrs. Bernard Chupack and Mr. Chupack and their daughter, Carmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Brisco and children, Barbara and Chester, 421 East Bishop street, shared their day with Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Brisco, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Brisco, Margaret Ann Brisco, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Knight and son, Philip, Mrs. Josephine Peck, Mrs. Myrtle Lenhart and Mrs. Louise McKenzie.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lutz opened their home at 411 East Washington yesterday at dinner to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Lutz and Mr. and Mrs. John Lutz, jr., and daughter, Joan Louise, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kokx and daughter, Karen Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. William Kolkhorst, Orange, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Johnson and daughter, Shirley, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson of Laguna Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lackland, 505 Grand, had as their Christmas Eve guests, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Willis, and Miss Elizabeth Stroum, Los Angeles, and Mrs. W. R. Lackland, Mr. Lackland's mother, who came recently from Parma, Idaho, to spend the holidays here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dunton's home at 1532 East Fourth street was the scene of a Christmas tree gathering yesterday morning. Guests included Barbara, Betty, George and Billy Dunton of the home, Mr. Dunton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dunton, and Mrs. Dunton's mother and brother, Mrs. Florence Mathews and Walter Mathews. The last two individuals named entertained the family group at dinner yesterday in the Mission Inn at Riverside.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Bishop, Fairhaven avenue, for a late dinner were Mr. and Mrs. John Dunlap, Gordon and Noble Bishop, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dunlap and daughter, Ruth.

Mrs. Martha Van de Walker had as Christmas dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Van de Walker and daughters, Gene and Joy, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Van de Walker, and baby, Mary Lee, and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Garvin.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Watson and Miss Lella Watson, of West Eighth street, had as dinner guests yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Watson of Eugene, Ore. The Lawrence Watsons, son and daughter-in-law of the Marion Watsons, are here for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Newhouse, Alhambra, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrea Wires and infant son, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Johnson, whose home is now at Modesto, is enjoying a holiday visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Johnson, 421 South Broadway.

The girls made the quilt.

PLANS NEAR END FOR EBELL DANCE

Plans are almost completed for the formal Christmas dance at which Santa Ana Ebell society will fete high school and college-aged children of members, tomorrow evening in Ebell clubhouse Peacock room.

Ray Ramon's eight-piece orchestra will play for the dance, of which Mrs. Herbert L. Miller is general chairman.

GIRLS GO ON CAROL TOURS

Girl Scout troops No. 1 and 4 went caroling last night.

The county hospital was their first destination, coming back from there to homes of friends of the girls. The evening culminated by enjoying hot chocolate and cookies at the First Methodist church.

Tri-Y Girl Reserves concluded their two-day caroling by going to home of shut-ins and special friends who had requested their singing. Sunday night, they serenaded homes wherever a candle was burning in the window.

Ruth Souder Is Christmas Bride

Miss Ruth Dorothy Souder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Souder, 503 South Flower street, was a lovely Christmas bride when she exchanged vows with Raymond Stober, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stober of Long Beach, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in First Methodist church bride's chapel.

She wore a sunset crepe tunic frock and carried sunset-toned sweet peas, blue delphinium and greenery. She wore a band of the dress material in her hair.

Her sister, Miss Clare Elizabeth Souder, in gold green crepe with orchid sweet peas, was maid of honor.

Bill Killian, Long Beach, was best man. Mr. Souder gave his daughter in marriage. Robert Souder and J. Lee Martin were ushers.

Miss Alice Martin was soloist, and Miss Elizabeth Lehnhardt, pianist for the wedding Dr. George A. Warmer officiated.

Seventy-five guests attended the wedding, and 50, the reception given in the Souder home. The bride's traveling costume was a deep green suit and green accessories.

The couple will live in Long Beach. Mrs. Stober is a graduate of Santa Ana High school and Junior college. Her husband, graduate of Long Beach Polytechnic High school, is head service man for the Buxon Neon Sign company.

HOSTESS TRIO HAS PARTY IN HOME

Mrs. Russell Hind (former Esther Egan), Mrs .Donald Wilcox and Miss Kathleen Covern entertained a group of former schoolmates with a Christmas dinner party Saturday evening in the Hind home in South Laguna.

A Christmas motif was carried out in the table decorations which made the party a gay affair. Red candles, place-cards and poinsettias were on the long table, and guests enjoyed an elaborate dinner prepared by newly-wed, Mrs. Russell Hind.

Following the dinner the guests spent the evening playing cootie and card games. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Dell Switzer (former Luella Marshall), Miss Frances Egan, Mr. Herbert Caldwell, Miss Edith McDonald, Robert Dantzkin, Donald Wilcox, Russell Hind, Everett Smith and the hostesses.

PIERIAN CLUB HAS HOLIDAY PARTY

Pierian club members had a gay Christmas program of original writings on a recent day in the home of Mrs. George Bond, 507 East Myrtle street.

Contributing were Mesdames Jennie Crawford, Jacob Bohlander, Henry W. Guthrie, J. D. Watkins and Hugh Gerrard.

Second grade Mexican children at Delhi were given Christmas gifts.

Pegasus literary club will entertain the Pierians Jan. 2 at the home of Mrs. Bond.

Miss Margaret Guthrie and Mrs. Rose Havely were guests present.

Plum pudding, Christmas cakes, candies and nuts were served.

BOOT'N SPUR CLUB HAS NOEL PARTY

Boot'n Spur Riding club members enjoyed a Christmas celebration one evening recently in the home of Mrs. Charles Frazer, 2015 Bush street.

Mrs. Harold Matthews and Mrs. Tom Allen, jr., won prizes in bridge.

The group exchanged gifts. The dessert tables were festive with miniature English riders and red'n silver candles.

Guests also included Mesdames Delbert Lewis, Elmer Gates, Esther Runnells, Ralph Adams and John Ortiz and Misses Marie Labrucherie, Delphina Lopez, Lillie Forsberg and Edna Laughlin.

MRS. R. HARRIS ENTERTAINS FRIENDS

The beginning of a round of gay parties planned for the holiday season in Laguna was one recent evening when Mrs. Ramona Harris entertained a group of friends at her home on South Coast boulevard. Guests enjoyed an evening of dancing in the holly decorated studio room.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Frost, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Ingram, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lucas, Mrs. Norma White, Mrs. Virginia Sykes and Messrs. Jerry Marugg, Harry Parker, Robert Boyd, George O'Hara, Sherman Paddock, Frederick Tipping and Gates Burroughs.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

What do you consider the best possible New Year's resolution?

Mrs. Albert Mason: I think being helpful to others. That's about as good as any resolution one could make, especially in these times, when so many people are in need of help.

Mrs. John J. Lutz: Do better than last year would be a good resolution. I want to raise my standard.

Mary Stoddard

Indifference of Girl Results in Cold Shoulder From Boy She Mourns as Lost Love

By MARY STODDARD

Many of us do not appreciate the thing we want most when we have it—it seems to be a dominant trait of human nature.

A girl of 18 writes that she loves a young man very much who loved her, too, until her indifference has caused him to grow cold.

How can she win him back? She may be able to do so by laying her cards on the table and telling him the truth—by being sincere, kind and true. If he still cares for her he may respond to her sincerity.

Her letter follows:

Dear Miss Stoddard: I'm coming to you with my problem in hopes that you can help me.

I'm 18 and have been going with a boy 20 for eight months. We loved each other dearly until about two months ago. I started it first, thinking that I was interested in someone else. He didn't get mad, but kept coming over just the same. I was mean to him, but I surely regret it now, because he has started to act cold towards me and hasn't been over for some time. I don't know what to think, because he knows I still love him. I do love him and when I think that his love for me has died I feel like crying. Could you suggest something I could do to win him back? Is there any way I can regain his love? J. M.

Perhaps the young man is attempting to pay you back in your own coin. Indifference in love begets indifference. You are both young and both have much to learn about the game called love. Why not invite the young man over to dinner soon, or have your mother do so? If he accepts the invitation you will know that he is still interested. If not, there is nothing else to do about it unless you write him a note of apology for your attitude.

Lagunalog

Chatter of Doings at Laguna Beach

By MAXINE STOREY

One would have to be a modern Achilles to keep up with the parties, plans and celebrations during the holiday season!

Lagunatics rush from store to store and party to party. Afternoons and evenings until New Year's eve will be a round of cocktail parties, dinners, dances and holiday gatherings.

Lagunaites home from schools during the past few days have snatched holiday calendars and are already in the whirl of a round of gay though a bit confusing events. With the two school Christmas plays successfully produced and attended by Laguna en masse, celebrators turn to the events of the coming few days.

Monday evening children and grown-ups got a real thrill when the Lions club held open house for children between 2 and 15 years old, and their friends and parents. A movie, refreshments and presents from Santa Claus were in store for the children. Frank Kibbey, Chester Maag, and Harry Bowles were in charge . . . Last evening was left open for small groups to gather at homes, decorate huge Christmas trees and superintend Santa Claus' visit to over-sized stockings. . . . Tonight the Community club entertains with open-house and presents for all children in the Village. A tree with Santa Claus to greet visitors and impromptu entertainment superintended by Halmar Forrest will feature the gathering.

Saturday afternoon, members of the Ebell club will hold a Christmas bridge session at Hotel Laguna. . . . That evening and Sunday evennig, already-weary Lagunatics will attend the comedy play, "And Let Who Will Be Clever," at the Community club. . . . In between the civic events and almost a breath after, young and old will open their doors for evening parties.

A glimpse of vacationers and shoppers: Ed Adams down from Berkeley and fog to spend the holidays with his parents . . . Guy Haggerty and Vic Martin, Stanford Phi Delts, visiting a few days with Stanfordite Jack Norwood; all planning to attend the New Year's game . . . cards from Julian Hayes at the University of Colorado; Hay Ryerson studying diplomacy in Washington, D. C., and Ida Griffith in Kansas university, recall summer "shooters" and Tustin school days. . . . Lew Hall, Santa Ana lad, beaching Saturday with Ted Cook, jr., Gracie Luckie and visiting Stanfordites. . . . Dolly Waldorf, leading lady in spring musical, "Flotsam and Jetsam," about, with enthusiasm for her singing at KHJ and movie work. . . . "Duke" Wagoner and parents back after several months in Chicago; with them came Doris Thurston who visited in New Orleans,, spent a week in Chacago with the Wagoners, and enjoyed her first out-of-state trip immensely. . . . Mayor Frank Champion mailing packages and cards which slightly confused the busy postoffice clerk; caused a lot of laughs among friends. . . . Lucy Cotton of San Clemente loaded down with three large boxes all wrapped in green and gold. . . . Fin Walker about Saturday eve after having attended the wedding of Caroline Ferry in Tustin . . . news that Al Brown, former Pomonaite and Laguna summerer, is doing research work for the "March of Time" in New York. . . . Esther Hind (former Esther Egen) entertaining a group of friends with Kathleen Covern as co-hostess. . . . Charles Jester looking over the toy department . . . and Marion Forrest "browsing" in the many gift shops.

Seen while strolling: Some lovely tiny oil paintings by Mrs. Vonna Owings Webb, former woman's club president, on the boulevard. . . . Ted Cook breezing by with a carload of Laguna men all amusedly laughing . . . a tiny boy with a red-striped candy cane almost as long as his arm . . . a local lad home from college dejectedly carrying huge bundles for his slow-shopping mother . . . two small twins buying presents for "mum" and "pop" . . . and Friday shoppers stopping to hear the "Rotary club" interpretations of Christmas carols in the White House cafe.

Until next week, when we change the calendar and bravely make "resolution lists," "God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen."

Birthday Tea Given in Home

Miss Margaret Rutan, whose birthday anniversary falls on Christmas day, gave a pretty Christmas eve tea party for 16 of her friends in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rutan, on Riverside Drive.

Miss Harriet Rutan assisted in receiving with her sister, whose 15th anniversary it was. The young girls all wore smart afternoon frocks.

Cutting animal shapes from vegetables resulted in the awarding of a prize to Miss Ruth Baker.

The hostesses served a two-course tea.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Rutan and their daughters were dinner guests of Miss Grace Wight at Altadena.

PAULARINO PUPILS GIVE PROGRAM

Violin solos were presented by Estella and Durward Dady. Velda Vetter gave a vocal solo. Estella Dady, a piano solo; Cleve Ketcham, a recitation, "A Visit From St. Nicholas"; all pupils of the school, a musical number entitled "The Living Christmas Tree." Mrs. Harry Dady accompanied.

"Shoes for Santa's Reindeer," a play, was presented by Durward Daby, Pauline Walker, Cleve Ketcham, Velda Vetter, Opal Ketcham, Jesslyn Langseth, Stewart Jansma, Donald Fortner and Chester Vetter.

R. G. TUTHILLS CELEBRATE HOLIDAY

At the R. G. Tuthill home, 2035 Victoria drive, for Christmas dinner yesterday were Miss Mary Tuthill, home from Stanford university; George Dougherty and son, John, from Klamath Falls, Ore.; Mrs. Mary Dougherty and her daughters, the Misses Marguerite, Louise and Katherine, from Laguna Beach, and James Dougherty from Los Angeles.

Miss Roberta and Miss Martha Tuthill, daughters of the host and hostess, who are attending school at St. Mary's at Notre Dame, went to New York City to spend Christmas with cousins. They will have the New Year's holiday in the Berkshire mountains of Massachusetts.

BIRTHDAY PARTY HAS HOLIDAY NOTE

Being 17 was having a party with Christmas trimmings for Harold Jessee Saturday night when his mother, Mrs. Gladys Jessee, entertained at the home of a co-hostess, Mrs. Sidney Messenger, 2206 Maple. Mrs. Grace Musick also assisted.

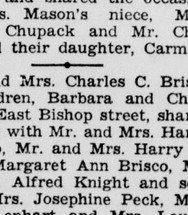

Prizes in the games went to Max Mansfield, Etta Bernstein, Merle Manderschine, Edward Calvin, Helen Messenger and Warren Jessee.

STOCKS JUMP UNDER YULE HAPPINESS

Selected Issues Pushed To New Highs; Utility Shares Popular

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (AP)—The stock market exuded Christmas cheer today as hopeful traders pushed selected issues to new highs for five years or longer.

The list had its usual post-holiday dull periods, and profit-taking was evident in a few motors and other recent favorites, but bullish sentiment seemed to prevail. The aircrafts, utilities and specialties were among the most popular equities.

Shares of Douglas Aircraft and Wright Aeronautical got up about 8 points each, and American Telephone rallied 2. Advances of fractions to 2 or more were recorded by Boeing, Curtiss-Wright "A," Sperry, United Aircraft, Consolidated Gas, North American, American Water Works, Public Service of New Jersey, Stone Webster, Philip Morris, Spiegel-May-Stern, Electric Boat, Mead Corp., Owens-Illinois, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, U. S. Smelting and Union Pacific. Both Chrysler and General Motors were lower, and most steels and rails were only fairly steady.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (AP)—The stock market forged ahead today under the leadership of aviation, utility and specialty groups.

Gains of fractions to 3 or more points were scattered over a broad front at the firm close. While the turnover was not exceptional, it was larger than usual for a post-Christmas session. Transfers approximated 2,290,000 shares. Closing prices:

come to public attention in a number of months. Supplying of this data is believed to have made it unlikely that the Orange county water district will be drawn into the lawsuit filed by James Irvine to determine rights of water users on the river.

The water district has been attempting to arbitrate this controversy, and recently informed the upper county groups that this information was necessary if negotiations were to have a chance to proceed toward the goal of settlement.

The data was sent to the water district by Chauncey L. McFarland, Riverside attorney. C. A. Palmer, secretary of the water district, and A. W. Rutan, attorney for the district, said the information will not be made public at this time.

Bailey Studies Data

The data at present is being studied by Paul Bailey, consulting engineer for the district. Mr. Rutan said that in a comparatively short time it should be possible to have the information interpreted and evaluated as it affects Orange county's rights. Following that it is expected there will be a conference between Orange county and the upper county interests with a view to getting together on allocation of water. If an agreement can be reached, it probably will be ratified by a court decree.

Orange county interests have been apprehensive that spreading of flood waters by the upper counties would impair Orange county water rights. If water belonging to Orange county were spread by the upper counties for five years, it is believed courts would allow them to establish legal title to it. The Irvine lawsuit, however, will make it impossible for this to happen as long as the suit is pending.

Grain Market

December wheat contracts climbed more than 1½ cents and reached a premium of 7 cents over May. Such a steep premium is almost unprecedented at this time of year. Only 10,000 bushels were scheduled for delivery here tomorrow on December contracts, although the total of unsettled dealings is about 4,000,000 bushels.

Wheat closed strong, ¼-1⅝c above Tuesday's close, May 99¾-99⅞c; corn unchanged to ½c lower, May 59¼-59⅝c; oats ⅛c up, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents down. Closing prices:

kind of liquor dispensaries it should have. California took a long step backward when she relegated control to a state board which cannot possibly understand local conditions in all parts of the state."

Mr. Smedley also declared himself flatly for a state control of the liquor business, and a curbing of the number of licenses issued.

"The solution of the problem for the present," he stated, "will probably be found in putting the state into the liquor business, eliminating private profits, and turning the industry into a state monopoly.

"I do not consider that an ideal arrangement, but it would probably be a vast improvement over the present situation.

"As it is," he said, "we have tied our hands as to proper control, and even proper education in the use of alcoholic beverages, and generations to come will have a right to blame us of the present-day for what we are bringing down upon them by our unintelligent handling of this tremendous social and economic problem."

ACTIVITIES OF PAST YEAR REVIEWED BY WAHLBERG

Reviewing activities of his department for the past 12 months, Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg Tuesday reported to the board of supervisors that the past year has been one of great activity in rural problems, involving economic, marketing, production, community and rural home projects.

A brief summary of the activities of the department, as presented by Mr. Wahlberg, follows:

Stabilization Programs

The marketing agreements for valencia oranges, walnuts and milk, the stabilization codes on corn-hogs, sugar beets, potatoes and wheat, and the market prorate on sweet potatoes, as well as the consideration of stabilization programs for avocados, beans and other crops, all have required local interpretation, grower contacts, farm surveys, and organization.

Agricultural Economics

Production cost studies were made on the principal crops of the county, in cooperation with 165 growers. The crops included and the number of years involved are: Valencias, 10 years; lemons, 10 years; walnuts, 7 years; lima beans, 7 years; avocados, 6 years; poultry, 9 years, and honey, 7 years. Bulletins covering these cost studies are available upon request. The Orange County Farm Accounting association was organized to make accounting available to farmers on a low cost cooperative basis.

Agricultural engineering projects included a survey of comparative pumping costs between individual and mutually owned pumping plants, a survey of power costs on electric and natural gas engine driven pumps, establishment of the El Toro Soil Conservation demonstration area, and soil, crop and water use survey on gum club area.

Other Activities

Field demonstrations, farm calls and rural educational projects were carried on with all crop groups and farm bureau departments in the county, including avocado, beekeepers, citrus, dairy, truck, forestry, 4-H agricultural and clothing clubs, farm home, poultry and walnuts.

The statistical summary of the agricultural extension service annual report showed the following activities: 96 demonstration meetings with an attendance of 5493; 19 demonstration tours with an attendance of 767; 110 project committee meetings with an attendance of 2853; 12 institutes and field days with an attendance of 2239; 66 farm center meetings with an attendance of 4875, and numerous miscellaneous meetings; 1896 farm visits made; 7266 office calls and 6220 telephone calls received for agricultural information; 4977 letters written and 59 radio talks given. There were 21 4-H agricultural and home clubs with a membership of 243.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

SYNOPSIS: In an effort to protect the Farnsworth Canneries, of which she would be owner had not Tam Farley cheated her out of her interest, Anne Farnsworts is present at the murder of her uncle, Lee Farnsworth. Worse, she is accused of having committed it. Anne is in jail, booked as Nikki Nielsen, the name she took when Tom Farley insisted that she was not even the adopted daughter of the late Luke Farnsworth. Anne is feverish, lying in a jail cell.

Chapter 36

NEAR DEATH

They were talking about her. Accusing her. Anne jumped to the floor. "That's a lie!" she screamed.

The matron was out of her chair, and Harry at her heels, running towards Anne's cell. "Get back in that bed," ordered the woman. But Anne, fired with a fever which seemed to have reached her brain, faced them.

"I did not kill Uncle Lee, and no jury nor anyone else can say it."

"Of course not, dear," the matron's voice was conciliatory, "but get into bed like a good girl. Harry, in my upper left-hand desk drawer, little black thing like a fountain pen."

Harry returned with it, and Mrs. Nelson, tucking Anne back into bed, dipped it into a glass of water, then thrust it into Anne's mouth.

For a long moment there was silence in the room, then the matron, looking at the thermometer, spoke to the deputy.

"Call Doctor Morton."

"Mrs. Nelson, it's two-thirty and that girl's going to be tried for—"

"She won't be here to be tried, or even charged, if you don't do as I say," snapped the woman.

Anne lay panting, burning now, trying in vain to throw off the covers the woman held over her, fighting the matron with unnatural strength.

"Let me out of here," she pleaded, "please let me out. My bed's cool. Don't make me stay."

"There — there, there — there." The monotone wore down her resistance, and the last memory Anne held of the queer world into which she had been precipitated was of a woman in white, patting her on the shoulder and saying in a sing-song voice, "there—there."

Anne Farnsworth opened her eyes. Pale green walls, shaded windows, a screen that cut off further view of the room, two voices talking in a low tone.

"She'll pull through, and I'm sorry," said one.

"You worked hard enough to help her," observed the other.

"Of course. But poor girl, think of what she has to face—"

"But supposing she isn't guilty. If she died, the real murderer would go scot-free."

"That wouldn't have hurt her. This will. From what I've heard, she's been through enough in the last year to kill an ordinary person. The family's treated her abominably."

"Motive for the shooting?"

"That's what the prosecution will say. Well, I'm off to bed. She should show a decided improvement tonight. Let me know if there's any change the other way."

"You don't mean wake you," came in astonishment from the second voice.

"I do, there's still a chance of her slipping back across the line, and . . . well, the girl's shown so much courage even in her unconscious state that I'm for her 100 per cent. I'm getting the court to appoint me as her attendant during the trial, so I can stand by and watch."

"Watch the trial?"

"No, watch her. If they're going to throw her to the legal lions to make a Roman holiday, I'm going to be there to bind up the wounds."

"When is the trial?"

"As soon as shes' strong enough to stand it."

The door closed behind swishing starched skirts. Anne stared at the green walls, hospital walls. She remembered now. There had been a long struggle. She had had to fight through for something. Well, she had fought, and for what? To face trial for the alleged murder of her uncle.

Queer justice that would provide medical means to save her, when they hoped to hang her.

Not that it mattered much, not that anything mattered. She wondered idly what time it was. The nurse, a least she persumed it was a nurse, said she might yet slip back across the danger line.

Why not? Why go on with the struggle to breathe, this rasping, heavy fight for air, when she could stop and sink into black feathers, or black clouds, something soft and smothery.

She remembered once she had almost lost sight of that pin point of light which it seemed she must strain towards. It had grown larger as she struggled until it became torch-like.

And then there had been someone near the torch who insisted that she carry on.

Anne opened her eyes. A pleasant faced girl stood watching her. At the sight of the opened eyes she moved swiftly across the room, then returned. A few moments later the door opened and a man came in, stepped to the bedside and looked down.

"Stood the change all right," he decided. "Don't put her back in the oxygen chamber unless you have to. Now about—" he moved away, his voice fading into the vague cloud that settled over her.

Anne fought to keep her eyes open. There he was, going towards the door now. He opened it. She caught a glimpse of a second figure arising from a chair beside the door. A policeman in uniform.

A shadowy smile tugged at the corners of Anne's lips. As if she could escape! And then she realized she could. There was another door, through which she might slip and evade them all, forever.

The nurse was standing at the bedside, a bowl in her hand, a glass tube tinkling against the edge. Nourishment. If she refused it, that other door would be opened. It would be easier to go that way; it took courage to live.

Anne looked up at her. "Sip," repeated the nurse.

Anne sat on the broad veranda of the hospital, flanked by a uniformed policeman, the jail matron and her day nurse.

"This is adventure," she told them. Just to look out on the purple hills, the blue river, to watch the seagulls wheeling, to feel the beat of the hot sun on her body, to smell the dry scents of early autumn in the air.

She was terribly tired of green walls and liquid food. At that, she had been unconscious so much of the time that she had escaped much of the monotony of her incarceration.

"Am I never to have company?" she asked the matron. "Here I've been ill for a whole month, and convalescing a week and three days."

"Whenever the doctor agrees," the nurse interposed.

"And the sheriff puts his okay on them," added the man in uniform.

Anne smiled at him. "He needn't be afraid of my friends delivering me. I know those bumps down there are supposed to be feet, but I don't think they know they belong to me. They wouldn't move if I ordered them to. Besides," she added thoughtfully. "I don't want to escape. I want to stay and face the charge. I know I'm innocent."

"Whom do you want to see?" the officer asked.

Anne hesitated. She wanted to see John Neuman, but somehow she couldn't admit this. If she saw Tecla, she could tell her all of the news and then she could ask her to send John up.

"My nurse, Tecla Sorki," she answered.

"Maybe tomorrow," temporized the matron.

On the morrow Tecla Sorki appeared, a mere shadow of her former self. Cautioned to be careful, she tiptoed into Anne's room and sat at the bedside afraid to speak.

"Tecla," laughed Anne when she opened her eyes and discovered her there, "you tempt me to say 'boo' and see if you'll jump."

"Nikki." All of the pent-up worry and woe of the past weeks were released in that word. "And I would have saved you from this worry, this sickness, with myself."

"I know you would, Tecla, but don't worry, you had nothing to do with it. Cheer up, everything will be all right. They won't let you stay long so begin telling me the news right away. How's Lisa? How many times has she locked herself out since I left?"

A little laugh escaped Mrs. Sorki. "But once," she confessed. "That time she make to go in the kitchen window and stuck she was in the middle, with both ends flapping. Only, her head it was inside so we do not hear her call."

AVOCADO PRICES IN 1936 TO BE HIGHER, YIELD LOWER

The avocado outlook for the immediate future, as well as the long time outlook, has just been issued by the agricultural extension service in its 1936 annual agricultural outlook for California.

The report, according to Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg, says that higher prices are likely to prevail for the 1935-36 crop of avocados than those received during the past season. Unless there is considerable improvement in the general price level, however, the average returns per pound over the next several years are likely to be as low as the 1934-35 prices.

Preliminary estimates indicate a crop in this state for 1935-36 of nine million pounds. The crop during the season just past amounted to 18,720,000 pounds, or approximately twice the estimated production for 1935-36. The present California crop was late, and heavy shipments did not begin until after the middle of November. This meant a slack period between the clean-up of the old crop and the new crop shipments, which resulted in higher price levels this years than at the beginning of the shipping season in 1934. Damage to the avocado crop in Florida is estimated at 50 to 75 per cent. All of these factors point to fairly good returns for the current crop, the report says.

From a longer-time point of view the situation is different. The trend of production will probably be sharply upward for the next four years. In 1935, total acreage of avocados in California was 12,975. Of this amount, 4411 acres, or 34 per cent of the total, was non-bearing. At the present rate of increase the bearing acreage will reach 12,000 within the next four years.

In 1927 California had only 690 bearing acres. Each succeeding year shows a substantial increase, and in 1935 there were 8564 bearing acres. New plantings have declined during the past two years, and the rate of increase in bearing acreage after 1940 probably will be retarded, says the report.

It is apparent, says the report, that the avocado industry is faced with a definite problem of widening its distribution and encouraging consumption, and unless this is done, further plantings are only justified under reduced cost condition.

TALBERT MAN HELD AFTER BEATING

Fred Gonzales, 25, Talbert, is in the county jail today charged with simple assault, following his arrest yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriffs G. F. McKelvey and Fred Humiston. According to a report filed by the deputies, Gonzales assertedly beat into unconsciousness Gerardo Fierro, Delhi, using as a weapon a length of heavy chain. Charges of assault with a deadly weapon originally were filed, but were reduced to simple assault today.

THOMAS-DEARDORFF BARN IS SETTING FOR NOEL PARTY

The Thomas - Deardorff barn was the scene of a happy Christmas party at which Mrs. Clyde M. Deardorff and an assisting group of mothers entertained Friday evening.

Assisting were Mesdames Carl Sutton, E. W. Wall, John Fullenweider, Forrest Menzie, J. A. Matson, J. R. Woodard, Watson and Murphy.

The barn was a "winter wonderland" of trees trimmed in silver, and a fireplace radiating holiday cheer. The young guests came in sweaters 'n slacks.

Strains of "Silent Night" played by Betty Jean Koster, ushered in the clever young girl, who led community singing of favorite carols. Gene Thomas as Santa Claus climbed in through a window of the barn and gave each child a wind-up toy, a red apple and a stocking filled with candy.

CROWD ATTENDS ART GATHERING

Approximately 250 artists and art-lovers gathered at the Laguna Beach Art gallery last Sunday afternoon to honor president, George K. Brandriff, and Laguna artists.

Guests were welcomed at the holly-decorated door by Mrs. Brandriff, a striking figure in a wine red velvet tea gown. Assisting the hostess for the tea were Mrs. Ted Gould, Miss Virginia Wooley, Miss Maude Roberts, Mrs. William A. Griffith and Mrs. Roy M. Ropp.

Christmas decorations were carried out with a lovely table in the center of the room, festive with candles and poinsettias. Mrs. Lewis F. Moulton and Mrs. W. B. Palmer poured.

Among Laguna artists who attended were William A. Griffith, Thomas Hunt, Carl Yens, Miss Fern Garry, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sherer, Mrs. Levis, Nell Walker Warner and Amy Wallace. Visitors to the gallery were enthusiastic in their praise of the December showing and were graciously escorted by the hostesses and artists to view the many paintings.

Out-of-town visitors and artists who travelled from points throughout California to attend the tea were Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Stevens of Tustin, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Fredericks of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kiefer of Glendale, Joseph Matteson of Pasadena; Miss Helen Goodwin of Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Smith and daughters of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Acre of San Marino, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Day, who are visiting here from Massachusetts.

Announcement was made that the $10 award offered for the best poster advertising the Frolic of the Comics Artists' ball New Year's eve was won by Maurice Day.

G. S. TROOP TO HAVE HOLIDAY FETE

Girl Scout Troop No. 1 will not hold its regular meeting tomorrow night in the little scout house, but will have its annual holiday party at the home of Mrs. R. R. Russick, 1345 South Flower, their troop leader.

The girls will exchange white elephant gifts. Cardinal patrol will be in charge of the party.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

AS IS ITS custom during eighteen weeks of the winter season, "The Symphony Hour" will feature the orchestras of Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle. Tonight the Portland organization plays under the direction of Willem van Hoogstraten. This consistently fine program probably boasts one of the most loyal audiences on the coast. Sponsored by Standard, it is now in its nineth consecutive year. (KFI-NBC, 8:15)

* * *

OTHER DIRECTORS to be featured during the next few months are Pierre Monteaux, Henri Svedrovsk and Basil Cameron. The highlight of tonight's broadcast will be the first movement from "Symphony No. 1" by Sibelius. This work is of particular interest to students because it is the last great symphony of its type.

MEDICAL CENTER MECHANIC SHOOTS 3; KILLS SELF

Maddened by imagined injustices and his discharge as a mechanic at the Columbia university medical center in New York, Victor S. Koussow (left), 55, holder of Russian university degrees, shot and killed two faculty members, wounded a third and then killed himself. Dr. Arthur T. Rowe (right), associate dean of the dental college, and Dr. Paul Wiberg (second from the left) were slain. Dr. William H. Crawford (third from left) was seriously wounded. (Associated Press Photos)

BIBLE 'BEST SELLER'

LONDON. (AP)—The Bible still tops the list of "best sellers" in the world. Nearly 11,000,000 copies, in whole or part, and printed in 692 languages or dialects, were distributed in 1934 by the British and Foreign Bible society.

ORANGE TRADE DROPS

RIO DE JANEIRO. (AP)—Brazil's orange export business is falling off so rapidly that traders are alarmed. In eight months this year shipments totaled 913,275 cases, a decrease of 95,264 from the same period in 1934.

The Port Of Missing Men

The following names of missing persons are furnished The Journal through the courtesy of the Bureau of Identification at the sheriff's office.

J. William Johansen and Jack Shafer, your parents are extremely worried over your disappearance from your homes in San Diego, and have asked police to assist in finding you. Please get in touch with them and they will make arrangements for your transportation home.

Amelia Louis Hartman, your parents have reported your disappearance from your home in Los Angeles to police, and are anxiously waiting some word from you. Please communicate with them and they will send funds for your transportation home.

Joe F. Hoefferle, your brother in Chino has been making an extensive search for you, and has told police he fears you may have met with foul play. He has told them you were last seen at your home in Chino Dec. 9. Please communicate with him as soon as possible.

John F. McGreggor, your continued failure to return to your home in Berkeley has resulted in a search for you by police. Please communicate with relatives,

THE PRICE OF PROTECTION

THE NATION is not easily forgetting the flight of the Lindberghs to England. As we realize its full significance, we are shocked even more than at first. Opinion is somewhat divided on whether the colonel and his wife are justified in making this dramatic move to insure the safety of their young son. But society is pretty well united in the belief that right or wrong, Colonel Lindbergh's sudden decision is a terrible indictment on the administration of justice in America.

And this brings us to the question which has been in our mind since the disturbing news of the Lindberghs' self-imposed exile first reached the news telegraph wires Monday. It is:

"Can we expect more when we invest so little?"

Can America expect to be crime free, or as crime free as England is supposed to be, as long as we take so little interest in who is at the helm of our government?

Certainly there can be no lessening in crime traffic and racketeering as long as we make heroes of the so called "big shots" of the criminal world. And they certainly will thrive as long as there is an indifferent enforcement of the law, if not an outright conspiracy between crooks and law enforcement officers. And certainly law enforcement officers will get into office and stay there until America pinches itself and wakes up to what is going on in this country.

Higher standards of living must be demanded of our public officials, including legislative officials. We have been too free and easy with those we have permitted to represent us. We have had little respect for the law, of course, because those who made, interpreted and enforced our law, too often have been of the type that created no majesty for it. We have heard it said of certain office holders:

"He gets in on his personality and stays in because he is a good fellow."

Colonel Lindbergh should have stayed home and aroused this country to a point where such blasphemy could not endure. If his going away will do it, maybe it was a wise move.

Score one for the Santa Anita races. A Los Angeles mother left her 9-year-old son to spend his Christmas at home alone while she went to see the ponies. When she returned she found his lifeless body. He had hanged himself.

SEE CHRISTMAS TREE LANE

CHRISTMAS in Southern California is Christmas outdoors. There are a good many millions of persons who would sacrifice a great deal if they could be transported from the shivering East and Middle West to the eternal summerland we of the Southland are privileged to enjoy.

But are we making the most of it? Without leaving Orange county one may feast his eyes on holiday spectacles seldom duplicated elsewhere. Due to the activities of the Orange County Coast Association, one may travel for hours through a display of Christmas wonderland which will provide thrills undreamed of.

We suggest you bundle the family into the car tonight and make the trip. Start at Huntington Beach, the community which won most of the prizes offered by the coast association this year. Then go on down the coast highway and feast your eyes. Be sure the children are with you. It will be one long ride of real Christmas cheer for them. Make certain they see the reindeer at the top of the chimney when you reach the home of Dr. C. C. Huston at Costa Mesa. Dr. Huston was chairman of the light display this year and his efforts brought forth many beautiful effects.

Keep going down the highway. You'll be immensely pleased when you see Corona Del Mar and Laguna. And when you reach Doheny Park, ask someone to tell you how to see the inspiring panorama at the Doheny Park clubhouse. This is a distinct novelty and will fascinate the children.

There are surprises galore at San Juan Capistrano and of course, the true Christmas spirit prevails within the walls of the mission. Don't fail to visit it. This is "sanctuary" week in the mission town and visitors are given a joyous welcome. For eight days the community is being thrown open to visitors. Strolling bands of minstrels will be found on the streets.

These are only highlights of an automobile trip through Orange county. Take time off and do it, if you want to really feel the spirit of Christmas.

Concerning Herbert Hoover's wheeze that the bank panic was caused by scared depositors who were "frightened at the incoming New Deal," we seem to recall that the paramount fear in those dark days was that March 4, 1933, might never come.

FORGETTING THE DRAB

TO CARL STEIN, Leland Auer and various participating organizations and individuals, Santa Anans are grateful today for the inspiring program of Christmas music the city has been treated to over Radio Station KREG during the days preceding Christmas.

The programs were varied and displayed great talent. Broadcast through loudspeakers on the streets, they gave the city a holiday touch not often experienced in cities this size. One found himself carried back to memories of his childhood and caught himself humming old carols as he went about his daily work. We wish these delightful experiences of the holiday season might go on and on. It might be a happier world if we could devise more ways of forgetting the drab, unpleasant things that annoy us in our effort to survive.

Southern Californians sent President Roosevelt a 100-pound cake worth $100. Add that to the list of useless Christmas gifts.

Not since the market mess has Manhattan night life acquired such a showiness. All of a sudden there has developed an army of catch-penny peacocks who want to stay up all night. It's an ordinary spectacle to see merrymakers in evening dress taxicabbing home at 9 and 10 a. m.

Many believe it an upshoot of the celebrity craze—the New York itch to rub elbows with headliners. Business, which had not been so good, began to pick up a few months ago when John Barrymore was a daily tabloid feature flashlighted here and there was a highly publicized Juliet.

This was followed by another spurt of business when Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone, on their honeymoon, were similarly photographed. And it reached almost unmanageable proportions when Clark Gable, Richard Barthelmess and Ernest Hemingway were revealed basking in the floor show spot-lights.

Celebrity chasers flocked to the bars in hope of a peep. And the Lobster Belt gained a push it has not lost in intervening weeks. There is a nocturnal feverishness that recalls Tom Healy's and Bustanoby's. Headwaiters are finding themselves rather important again.

Of all the stories of Dwight Morrow's absent-mindedness I like this best. After talking to a friend along the sidewalk on lower Broadway for some time, Mr. Morrow, saying good-bye, inquired: "By the way, when you met me was I going uptown or down-town?" The reply was downtown. "That's fine then," beamed the banker. "I've had my lunch."

These crackly cold days in the city inspire a torrent of back home days in the city inspire a torrent of back home romanzas for a steam-heated window-gazer. Such as butterflies in colorful zigzag, the hot, dusty country road the hum of the reaper, the dry scent of scattered hay, the wind-blown golden glories in fence corners, the chuckle of a waterfall and the soft plush of cool green moss.

I was thinking this morning of the time our school teacher, Miss Kate Lawson, stopped at the kitchen stoop to tell grandma I seemed pale and listless. I overheard because the circus was coming and I was drooping on a cellar step trying to look sad and lonely to someone, for goodness sake, would have a little pity. I heard grandma say: "No wonder he's punny. He won't eat meat, potatoes and carrots as he should —all the time he's going around eating nick-nacks."

The least known, but one of the most effective charities in New York, is Sailors' Snug Harbor, created by Captain Randall more than 100 years ago. He established a trust with his farm as a nucleus, the farm embracing all that part of the Washington Square area running from Fifth avenue over to and including the Wanamaker building. The income from the property was originally intended to take care of sailors no longer able to sail before the mast. A special legislation was later necessary to include sailors from whaling vessels and steamboats. Today Sailors' Snug Harbor has a large farm on Staten Island where 1,000 old salts are spending last days.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. — In business and labor circles Major George L. Berry is known as head of the powerful pressmen's union. As a government official he holds the important post of coordinator for industrial recovery.

But to several thousand children in Happy Valley, Tenn., his ancestral home, Berry is "Santa Claus."

Each year on Christmas day he gives a party on his large model farm in Happy Valley to the youngsters of his home county. All are welcome, and for each there is ice cream, cake and candy in abundance and a toy gift.

In preparation for playing Santa this year, Berry bought a full carload of toys.

Berry and his wife have been host at similar parties for many years. Childless, they find great joy in giving a day of happiness to the children of neighbors.

On Thanksgiving they send to several hundred children in all parts of the country large turkeys raised on their own farm. Packed in ice the birds are shipped from Happy Valley, to arrive just the day before they are to be eaten.

LEATHER LUNGED

Some of the country's highest-priced legal talent almost fretted themselves into nervous prostration during the argument on the Tennessee valley authority case before the supreme court.

The court alloted five hours to hear argument; two for the government, three for the numerous power attorneys.

First to lead off for the opposition was Forney Johnston, chief counsel for the Alabama Power company and, although a Democrat, one of the bitterest New Deal foes in the country.

Johnston talked for a half hour. Some of his colleagues began arranging their papers in anticipation that he was nearing a close and they would be called. But they were wrong. Johnston was far from finished.

While the other half dozen utility lawyers glared, twitched and fidgeted in their seats, the chunky little Alabaman talked on and on and on.

When he finally sat down there remained just 38 minutes of the utilities time.

Particularly outraged at Johnston's verbosity was James M. Beck, solicitor general under Harding and now the most vocal of American Liberty league lawyers. Himself given to lengthy dissertations Beck was so angry at Johnston he was almost speechless.

Note: Johnston is the man who, at the 1924 convention in Madison Square Garden, gained nation-wide fame for his bellowing refrain: "Alabama casts 24 votes for Underwood."

DEMERITS

Christmas this year is not as cheery as it might be for employes in the office of Comptroller of the Currency "Jafty" O'Connor.

A few days ago when they came to work they found on their descks notice of a new disciplinary system. It consists of a long list of "don'ts" with demerits for each infraction. Seventy-five demerits and the ax falls.

These are some of the prohibitions and penalties.

	Demerits
Throwing paper clips	5*
Reading newspapers	2
Smoking in file room	10
Eating during office hours	1
Singing or whistling	3
Fighting	25
Striking fellow employes	5
Boisterous conduct in general	10
Abusive language (cursing or obscene)	15
Conducting private correspondence	1
Drinking	25
Gambling	25
Insubordination	25

* Second offense, 20.

Note: Jafty's is the only government office in Washington that uses the demerit system to maintain order among employes. The method is in force in all federal prisons.

EMBARRASSING DISCLOSURE

Press conferences of Secretary Dan Roper's ordinarily are the dullest in the capital. But the other day one of them yielded a nugget of inside news that surprised Roper as much as it did reporters.

Roper opened the conference by announcing a reorganization of the business advisory council. This is a body of big businessmen established by Roper chiefly to garner a little personal publicity.

As he has repeatedly "reorganized" the council, newsmen were apathetic over the latest change. Roper announced that Harry P. Kendall, chairman of the council, would explain the details.

The textile manufacturer tackled the job with relish. With warmth and eloquence he expounded on the significance of the council's work.

"As as example," he stated, "after the supreme court threw out the NRA, the council submitted a confidential plan to the President on how the NRA could be continued."

The drowsing reporters sat up with a jerk. This was "hot stuff." Big business had urged the President to carry on the NRA despite the supreme court's ban.

Delighted with the impression he was making, Kendall prepared to continue. But Roper, a-twitter with alarm, stopped him.

"Ah, hmn, er, uh, Mr. Kendall," he broke in. "I don't believe you want to go into that matter just now."

Kendall looked up startled, stuttered for a moment, finally replied:

"Yes, yes, yes. I guess you are right, Mr. Secretary," and sat down.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Entire World Must Have Real Interest in Britain's Welfare

BRITIAN and France are busy with a face-saving magician's trick, a most difficult, but apparently necessary act. Having labored zealously for months to bring forth a solution to the war situation, they have nothing but embarrassment for their plans.

The map fixers have been discredited at home and abroad. Foreign Secretary Hoare resigns; the Baldwin government totters but recovers its balance; the league trembles under a new crisis.

Italian military movements have halted and Ethiopian savages are slaying their hundreds.

Meanwhile the most favorable campaign season is passing with the rainy season months ahead. Mussolini dares not let the war drag on much longer.

Just what peculiar psychology impels nations to save their faces? Why can't they honestly admit mistakes in a gentlemanly manure and proceed quietly on their way?

Probably diplomats could do so if they did not work up partiotic fervor all the time. Why rush to arms over an issue not worth worrying about?

Centuries of intrigue and violence, of dark suspicious and mortal fear, of arrogant pride and lust for power still plague us with their evil fruit.

The old game of twisting the lion's tail appeals to many Americans. Tirades against Britain are always in order. Her imperialism, her selfish grasping for dominance, her world-flung tentacles, her conceited notion of the "white man's burden," her intolerance to opposition and rivalry—all are objects of attack.

They accuse Britain of using the league to protect her own interests, of forcing France to support her, of using every hook and crook to maintain the status quo. Being the biggest robber of all, and first on the scene, grabbing most of the loot, she wants things to remain as they are.

Let's grand that Britain is guilty of all this and much more. The question arises if there may not be genuine value in intelligent selfish policy. Is not Britain's welfare inextricably bound up with the world? Are not world peace and progress vitally concerned with Britain's position?

Haven't American and all the western nations a real interest in British power and stability?

For answer, consider the world with British power shattered and her far-flung empire in ruins. vision the maddened confusion when every subject people throws off British control and adds its own clamor to the bedlam of racket already tearing peace in sunder.

When Africa, from Cairo to the Cape; Asia, from Cyprus to Hongkong; all the island-sprinkled seas —all the provinces and protectorates and settlements and mandatories and dominions and divisions and sub-divisions—when all the restraining bonds are broken, where then will the white man's power be, or where will the darkened sons of man find shelter?

That fellow who wanted to hitch his wagon to a star will have a tough time making a coupling with the celestial representative at the top of the deodar tree on the Smith and Tuthill lawn. He put a star at the peak and then left a string of lights all the way down so he could find his way out. How he got that light at the top of the tree, and how he's going to get it down again, has been giving me some concern, but inasmuch as I've been enjoying the beauty of that decoration I'm just going to let the fellow who put it up take it down.

Soviet Russia with its secret police keeps the proletariat guessing in spite of the asseverations of the Stalin administration that it's good for 'em. With all of our faults give me the good old U.
